4 seriously hurt in area accidents

Four persons were seriously injured and eight received lesser injuries in eight area traffic accidents over the weekend, the highway patrol announced today.

Two Dunklin Countians were seriously injured in a one-vehicle accident at 4:20 p.m. Saturday four miles west of Risco on Highway 62.

The accident occurred when a westbound pickup truck driven by Ricky Allen Luke, 24, of Bertrand Route One ran off the north side of the highway and overturned.

Two passengers, Robert John Williams, 24, of Malden and Michael James Patterson, 25, of Campbell, suffered injuries and were taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital at Kennett, then transferred to Baptist Memorial Hospital at memphis, Tenn.

A Vanduser youth was seriously injured in a single-car accident at 11 p.m. Saturday four miles south of Sikeston on an unmarked blacktop road.

The accident occurred when an eastbound car driven by Frank Stephen Albertson, 16, of Bell City ran through an unmarked intersection into a ditch.

A passenger, Gary Lee Barrick, 15, of Vanduser received injuries and was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital at Sikeston.

Another teen-aged passenger suffered serious injuries and the driver received minor injuries in a one-car accident at 11 p.m. Friday five and one-half miles southeast of Arcadia in Iron County.

The accident occurred when a northbound car driven by Gary Dale Scott, 19, of Ironton ran off the road on a curve and struck a tree.

Scott received minor injuries and a passenger, William Crocker, 17, of Middle Brook, was seriously injured. Both were taken to St. Mary's Hospital at Ironton.

A Doniphan man received moderate injuries in a one-car accident at 6:50 p.m. Friday on Route A six miles south of Doniphan.

The accident occurred when a northbound car driven by Junior Earl Jameson, 26, of Doniphan ran off a curve on the wrong side of the road, traveled down a ditch and struck a dirt embankment.

Jameson suffered injuries and was taken to Ripley County Hospital at Doniphan.

Two persons received minor injuries in a two-car accident at 9:50 p.m. Friday two miles south of Fredericktown on Highway 67.

The accident occurred when a northbound car driven by Michael J. Jakich, 21, of Granite City, Ill., made a left turn into the path of a southbound car driven by Richard E. Tripp, 34,

Thieves take dogs, radio, gun

Thieves took a dog, radio, tires and a gun in separate thefts over the weekend, police said today.

A three or four-month-old German Shepherd dog was taken about 8:15 p.m. Saturday from the Bobby Fincher home, 509 Coleman St. The dog was valued at $100.

Five steel-belted radial tires worth $200, a tire and wheel worth $75 and a truck tire worth $55 were taken from Nicholson's Tire Service, 709 W. Malone Ave., sometime Friday night.

Police said thieves entered the building by knocking out the glass in a bathroom window and crawling through.

Jerry Lay, 711 Ruth St., told police a citizens band radio worth $100 was taken from his pickup truck while the truck was parked at his home between 1 and 6:45 p.m. Friday.

A shotgun valued at $350 was taken from a truck belonging to John W. Burton, 213 Cravens St., between 1:30 and 4:20 p.m. Friday while the truck was parked at the Ferguson Medical Group clinic, 1012 N. Main St.

City collects $15,180.47

The city collected $15,180.47 in taxes and fees during August, according to City Collector C. W. Martin.

Back real estate taxes totaled $324.30, and back personal taxes totaled $11.40.

License collections totaled $10,923.83, including $10,597.08 in merchants licenses, $231.25 in auto stickers, $22.50 in liquor licenses and $73 for dog tags.

Miscellaneous collections totaled $3,920.94, including $3,892.59 in franchise fee payments from Associated Natural Gas Co., $27.25 in accrued interest and $1.10 for clerk costs.

Martin said merchants licenses are now past due and subject to a 10 per cent penalty for every month overdue.

Burlison favors grain deals

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — The fact that the United States uses only about half of the wheat and soybeans that American farmers produce is reason enough to support U.S. grain deals with the Soviet Union, Rep. Bill Burlison says.

The Missouri Democrat, a member of the agriculture subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee, made the remark during an interview broadcast Sunday on Jonesboro television station KAIT-TV's "In Focus" program.

Burlison said there is a failure by much of the public to understand the value of trade for the nation.

In 1974, there was a $12 billion agri-trade surplus which permitted the U.S. to have its first favorable balance of trade since 1971, the congressman said. "Were it not for this, inflation would have been even worse than it was," he said.

Agri-exports have paid for the oil that was imported into the U.S. "to heat our homes, to run our cars and to keep our industry going," Burlison said. "So it is essential to maintain favorable trade relations around the world."

Burlison, who is from Cape Girardeau, Mo., near the Arkansas-Missouri line, said that farmers provide the only part of American society that continues to be competitive around the world.

Matthews to elect 2

MATTHEWS--Voters will ballot Tuesday in a special city election to elect a city marshal and a police judge to fill terms that will expire next April.

Candidates for marshal are Hubert Bewley and Clyde Anglin, who has been serving by appointment following the resignation in May of former Marshal Glen "Pete" Burch.

Candidates for the office of police judge, which has been changed from an appointive post to an elective one, include Charles Beard, Robert Carlisle and F.E. Story.

Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the city hall in ward one and at the community building in ward two.

U.S. can't feed world, Boillot says

ORAN---Missouri Commissioner of Agriculture James B. Boillot told a gathering of 125 people attending the Farm Bureau Association Meeting Saturday night that Scott County was the fourth largest producer of wheat in the state this year and noted that corn producers in 78 counties, primarily in the northern and western sections of the state, have asked for disaster aid due to drought damage.

In regard to the United States producing enough food to feed the world, Boillot said there would not be enough transportation available, no one could afford the cost and that farmers certainly could not pay for it.

The agriculture director also said the United States should be watchful in the area of international import and export, so as not to supply commodities to a country that is in competition with us. He also expressed a hope that all farmers present would try to impress upon fellow farmers the desirability of leaving some fields in grass and the importance of all farmers leaving the land in better shape than they found it for the future. A way of doing this, he said, is to become more effective and efficient farmers.

When asked how effective the Farm Bureau is in Jefferson City, Boillot replied that the Farm Bureau is effective in all facets, but added that each farmer has a personal interest at stake and the Farm Bureau cannot do it all alone.

Martin Priggel of Oran, chairman of the county association's policy action committee, submitted a list of 20 resolutions to be approved and sent to the Farm Bureau state headquarters. Among the key resolutions were proposals that farmers not need to be certified to handle pesticides, but that more training be made available in the application of chemicals; opposition to

Man pushed from cab and robbed

A Memphis, Tenn., man was robbed Friday night on Third Street, according to police.

Spencer Netter was found by police in the street in front of a house at 140 Third St. Police said they believe $30 was taken in the robbery.

Witnesses told police Netter had been pushed from a cab by two men who then searched his pockets, got back into the cab and left.

Police said Netter, who was too intoxicated to tell officers anything, was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital for treatment of cuts.

The cab driver told police he picked up Netter and a second man at 214 Felker St. The second man led Netter to the cab and told the driver to take them to Third Street.

Paul Luber, who lives at the Felker Street address, told police that he and Netter had been drinking when Netter went to use the rest room and never returned.

Ford favors plan to extend controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today embraced a GOP plan to extend oil price controls for 45 days as Republicans and Democrats disagreed on prospects of sustaining his promised veto of a six-month extension.

Participants in a breakfast meeting Ford held with selected Republican senators produced forecasts that the veto, due Tuesday, would be upheld by the Senate.

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., who took part in a bipartisan conference on energy policy later in the morning, said the House probably would override the veto.

Albert said that no matter what happens to Ford's veto, "in the long pull, we've got to work out an energy bill."

Ford would like to see a 45-day continuation of controls and the fashioning during that period of a Republican-Democratic compromise on a longer-term phaseout of oil price curbs.

"All we could do is talk about a compromise," Albert said following Ford's meeting with congressional leaders.

The House speaker said Ford also urged early action on the decontrol of the price of natural gas moving across state lines.

He said Ford discussed a move to give gas-short industries 180 days this fall and winter in which to go into unregulated state markets for natural gas to buy supplies at the going rate.

Administration officials say some industries face the threat of running out of gas supplies needed to sustain production during the winter months.

Ford and key aides, including Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, met for nearly 90 minutes with the GOP senators before going into the bipartisan conference.

The two meetings today followed one Saturday at which seven Democratic senators agreed with Ford that the best course would be enactment of a measure to phase out price controls.

GOP Sens. William V. Roth of Delaware and Lowell Weicker of Connecticut told reporters after the breakfast meeting that they were confident the Senate would vote Wednesday to uphold Ford's veto of the Democratic-sponsored six-month extension of controls. But they indicated a close vote.

Roth, chief sponsor of a bill to pare the control extension to 45 days, said he thought foes of the six-month bill could produce the 34 votes to sustain the veto in the 100-member Senate.

It had been assumed Ford would embrace the 45-day extension but the first formal word of that came from Roth after the breakfast meeting. The other 8 GOP senators who attended the meeting agreed to join him as co-sponsors of the measure, he said.

"I think real progress is being made," Roth told reporters.

He predicted a compromise agreement with congressional Democrats on a gradual phaseout of controls.

Ford has indicated he wants all controls lifted within 39 months, but Weicker said, "I think he is flexible."

The senator, who said he favored immediate decontrol, blamed "the inability of Congress to make decisions" for rising energy prices and higher unemployment.

GOP picks K.C. for convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republicans will hold their 1976 presidential nominating convention in Kansas City, a mid-America locale contrasting with the Democrats' Manhattan meeting.

The Republican decision was made by the site committee late Sunday after 3½ hours of closed-door deliberation. Routine approval of the 7-0 vote was expected today from the Republican National Committee.

The final choine came down to Kansas City and Cleveland, both filling what party sources conceded was a desire to hold the convention in a Midwestern setting. Kansas City apparently won out because of insurmountable housing problems in Cleveland.

Still, some idea of the sacrifice Republicans were willing to make to get the right geographical setting is seen in the fact that some conventioneers will be quartered as far away as Topeka, Kan., and St. Joseph, Mo., both about an hour's drive from the convention site.

Cleveland had offered to bring in cruise ships and temporary modular housing to provide enough hotel space but still would have required sending some delegates to Akron, Ohio.

Housing was an unusually difficult problem for the Republicans because they will have their largest convention next year, at last count more than 2,200 delegates and an equal number of alternates.

It will be the first nominating convention for Kansas City since 1928, when the Republicans nominated Herbert Hoover.

The Republican convention is tentatively scheduled to start Aug. 16, the Democrats July 12 in New York. The party in the White House traditionally goes last.

Cleveland had the appeal of the largest city in the country with a Republican mayor, Ralph Perk, who led his city's delegation before the site committee.

But Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond, chairman of the Republican Governors' Association, appeared in support of Kansas City, promising adequate police protection during the convention. Mayor Pro Tem Richard Berkley led a 17-member Kansas City delegation to lobby the site committee.

The City Council has pledged $500,000 in services and facilities for the Kansas City convention, and Mayor Charles Wheeler, a Democrat, has offered to head a fund drive to raise another $300,000 from private sources.

Wheeler said the city's central location was the top factor in winning the convention.

Wheeler said the convention will mean about $16 million to Kansas City — divided equally between outside money being spent and the more intangible national publicity the city will receive. The City Council approved a contract last week that would provide up to $500,000 in services and facilities although opponents argued that the cost would be more than $500,000 and would burden the city financially.

Wheeler rejects estimates the city will incur an additional expense of $600,000 to provide police protection for the convention.

Councilman at Scott City dies in Cape

SCOTT CITY--Marvin F. Arnold, 61, city councilman and member of the park board, died at 9:30 p.m. Saturday at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau, where he had been a patient the last few days after an illness of several months.

He was born April 17, 1914 near Benton to the late Frank I. and Rosalie Pfefferkorn Arnold.

On Sept. 5, 1964, he married Mrs. Helen West, who survives.

He was a veteran of World War II, serving in New Guinea and Asiatic waters of the Pacific.

He was past commander of Kelso Township Memorial Post 6407 of Veterans of Foreign Wars and was a member of American Legion Post 369 at Benton and St. Joseph Catholic Church in Scott City. He also was a retired news carrier for the Southeast Missourian.

Other survivors include a stepdaughter, Mrs. Marvin Raines of Scott City; two sisters.

Senatorial districts ruled valid

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Supreme Court overturned a lower court ruling today and upheld the constitutionality of the state's senatorial districts.

In the 5-2 decision, the majority agreed with the heirs of Del C. Preisler of St. Louis, who pursued the challenge he began several years ago, that the 6th and 33rd districts do not meet the requirements of compactness.

But Judge Fred L. Henley, writing for the majority, said, "It must be recongnized that there will be some degree of unavoidable noncompactness in any apportionment of this state into 34 senatorial districts."

Henley said that would necessarily occur because of a number of factors, including the fact that population density differs from area to area within the state.

The ruling reverses the decision of Cole County Circuit Judge Byron Kinder, who ruled earlier this year that the layout of the senatorial districts did not meet the requirements of the constitution for compactness.

Kinder's ruling also barred Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick from accepting any declarations of candidacy for the 1976 state Senate elections until the districts were redrawn. That left undetermined the fate of some dozen candidates who had filed for seats prior to the ruling.

Kirkpatrick said, however, his office would not accept filings for senate seats until the lower court injunction is set aside.

"We have been advised by the attorney general's office to comply with Judge Byron Kinder's original injunction, despite the fact his ruling was overturned by the Missouri Supreme Court this morning," Kirkpatrick said in a statement.

"Under the law, the plaintiffs have 15 days in which to request a rehearing by the Supreme Court. If this period passes without contest, and Judge Kinder withdraws his injunction, then we will again receive candidate declarations for state senator."

Judges Lawrence Holman, John E. Bardgett, Robert T. Donnelly and J. P. Morgan joined Henley in the majority opinion.

That opinion said the 1971 redistricing commission "made an honest and good faith effort to construct senatorial districts as compact as may be."

While agreeing that the 6th district, represented by Democrat James Conway of St. Louis, and the 33rd district, represented by Republican James Noland of Osage Beach, were not compact, "Considering the over-all, statewide plan developed by the commission the districts established substantially comply with the compactness requirement," Henley wrote.

The opinion also noted that based on previous court rulings, "The courts may not interfere with the wide descretion which the legislature has in making apportionments for establishing such districts when legislative discretion has been exercised."

In his dissent, Judge James A. Finch contended the constitution calls for all districts to be contiguous, compact and nearly equal in population.

Burlison favors grain deals

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — The fact that the United States uses only about half of the wheat and soybeans that American farmers produce is reason enough to support U.S. grain deals with the Soviet Union, Rep. Bill Burlison says.

The Missouri Democrat, a member of the agriculture subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee, made the remark during an interview broadcast Sunday on Jonesboro television station KAIT-TV's "In Focus" program.

Burlison said there is a failure by much of the public to understand the value of trade for the nation.

In 1974, there was a $12 billion agri-trade surplus which permitted the U.S. to have its first favorable balance of trade since 1971, the congressman said. "Were it not for this, inflation would have been even worse than it was," he said.

Agri-exports have paid for the oil that was imported into the U.S. "to heat our homes, to run our cars and to keep our industry going," Burlison said. "So it is essential to maintain favorable trade relations around the world."

Burlison, who is from Cape Girardeau, Mo., near the Arkansas-Missouri line, said that farmers provide the only part of American society that continues to be competitive around the world.

Matthews to elect 2

MATTHEWS--Voters will ballot Tuesday in a special city election to elect a city marshal and a police judge to fill terms that will expire next April.

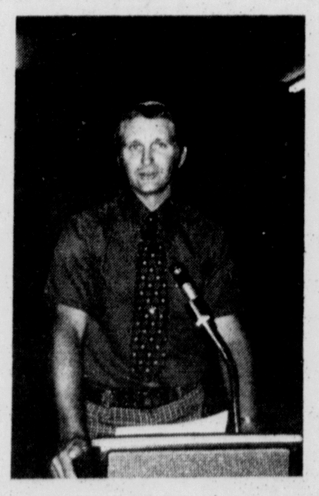
Candidates for marshal are Hubert Bewley and Clyde Anglin, who has been serving by appointment following the resignation in May of former Marshal Glen "Pete" Burch.

Candidates for the office of police judge, which has been changed from an appointive post to an elective one, include Charles Beard, Robert Carlisle and F.E. Story.

Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the city hall in ward one and at the community building in ward two.

U.S. can't feed world, Boillot says

ORAN---Missouri Commissioner of Agriculture James B. Boillot told a gathering of 125 people attending the Farm Bureau Association Meeting Saturday night that Scott County was the fourth largest producer of wheat in the state this year and noted that corn producers in 78 counties, primarily in the northern and western sections of the state, have asked for disaster aid due to drought damage.



Martin Priggel

In regard to the United States producing enough food to feed the world, Boillot said there would not be enough transportation available, no one could afford the cost and that farmers certainly could not pay for it.

The agriculture director also said the United States should be watchful in the area of international import and export, so as not to supply commodities to a country that is in competition with us. He also expressed a hope that all farmers present would try to impress upon fellow farmers the desirability of leaving some fields in grass and the importance of all farmers leaving the land in better shape than they found it for the future. A way of doing this, he said, is to become more effective and efficient farmers.

When asked how effective the Farm Bureau is in Jefferson City, Boillot replied that the Farm Bureau is effective in all facets, but added that each farmer has a personal interest at stake and the Farm Bureau cannot do it all alone.

Martin Priggel of Oran, chairman of the county association's policy action committee, submitted a list of 20 resolutions to be approved and sent to the Farm Bureau state headquarters. Among the key resolutions were proposals that farmers not need to be certified to handle pesticides, but that more training be made available in the application of chemicals; opposition to government control of soybean and feed reserves be continued; continued support of present restrictions on the import of dairy products; and more aggressive action by the bureau in situations such as the

A Memphis, Tenn., man was robbed Friday night on Third Street, according to police.

Spencer Netter was found by police in the street in front of a house at 140 Third St. Police said they believe $30 was taken in the robbery.

Witnesses told police Netter had been pushed from a cab by two men who then searched his pockets, got back into the cab and left.

Police said Netter, who was too intoxicated to tell officers anything, was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital for treatment of cuts.

The cab driver told police he picked up Netter and a second man at 214 Felker St. The second man led Netter to the cab and told the driver to take them to Third Street.

Paul Luber, who lives at the Felker Street address, told police that he and Netter had been drinking when Netter went to use the rest room and never returned.

Senatorial districts ruled valid

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Supreme Court overturned a lower court ruling today and upheld the constitutionality of the state's senatorial districts.

In the 5-2 decision, the majority agreed with the heirs of Del C. Preisler of St. Louis, who pursued the challenge he began several years ago, that the 6th and 33rd districts do not meet the requirements of compactness.

But Judge Fred L. Henley, writing for the majority, said, "It must be recongnized that there will be some degree of unavoidable noncompactness in any apportionment of this state into 34 senatorial districts."

Henley said that would necessarily occur because of a number of factors, including the fact that population density differs from area to area within the state.

The ruling reverses the decision of Cole County Circuit Judge Byron Kinder, who ruled earlier this year that the layout of the senatorial districts did not meet the requirements of the constitution for compactness.

Kinder's ruling also barred Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick from accepting any declarations of candidacy for the 1976 state Senate elections until the districts were redrawn. That left undetermined the fate of some dozen candidates who had filed for seats prior to the ruling.

Kirkpatrick said, however, his office would not accept filings for senate seats until the lower court injunction is set aside.

"We have been advised by the attorney general's office to comply with Judge Byron Kinder's original injunction, despite the fact his ruling was overturned by the Missouri Supreme Court this morning," Kirkpatrick said in a statement.

"Under the law, the plaintiffs have 15 days in which to request a rehearing by the Supreme Court. If this period passes without contest, and Judge Kinder withdraws his injunction, then we will again receive candidate declarations for state senator."

Judges Lawrence Holman, John E. Bardgett, Robert T. Donnelly and J. P. Morgan joined Henley in the majority opinion.

That opinion said the 1971 redistricing commission "made an honest and good faith effort to construct senatorial districts as compact as may be."

While agreeing that the 6th district, represented by Democrat James Conway of St. Louis, and the 33rd district, represented by Republican James Noland of Osage Beach, were not compact, "Considering the over-all, statewide plan developed by the commission the districts established substantially comply with the compactness requirement," Henley wrote.

The opinion also noted that based on previous court rulings, "The courts may not interfere with the wide descretion which the legislature has in making apportionments for establishing such districts when legislative discretion has been exercised."

In his dissent, Judge James A. Finch contended the constitution calls for all districts to be contiguous, compact and nearly equal in population.

JUSTICE

New Madrid County courts are something else!!!

And that is perhaps the understatement of the century.

Daily Standard sports editor Ron Jaynes has had his share of trouble with the authorities in NMC ever since his articles of a year ago when he wrote stories about sheriff W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey and prosecuting attorney Hall E. Hunter which were picked up by the St. Louis Globe Democrat and the Associated Press.

Only four days after The Daily Standard carried a news story about Hunter's arrest by federal game agents, Jaynes was arrested by New Madrid county authorities on charge of selling mortgaged property. That charge was dismissed by special magistrate judge Sidney Chaffin in a preliminary hearing. Hunter met with a pair of the papers executives and protested that Jaynes charge was never published. But it was pointed out that nothing was on record and Jaynes hadn't appeared in court yet. When he did appear the story was ran.

Jaynes was forced to post a $1,000 bond on the charge while at the same time a man charged with assault with a deadly weapon had to put up only $500 bond.

Only recently Jaynes was fined $100 in Parma city court for allegedly assaulting two grown men. The fine was handed down by the father-in-law of one of the men involved in the incident.

A brother of the two who were allegedly assaulted, Doy Hunt, was given a six month suspended jail sentence upon payment of $25 fine and court costs in New Madrid county circuit court earlier this week. He was charged with exhibiting dangerous and deadly weapons -- a knife and lug wrench -- on June 25 in the presence of Paul Miller, who was with Jaynes at the time of the alledged assault and has charges pending in the city court of Parma in relation to the case. Miller was chased around a car by Hunt with the weapons.

Is this justice ... or is it harassment? But that's the way of New Madrid's system.

A MIGHTY FACTOR

The economic importance of the automobile industry has been estimated at $77 billion. Agriculture, on the other hand, accounts for over $400 billion in the nation's economy.

PARTS SURPASS THE WHOLE

Car owners are getting hit twice by inflation — once when they lay out hundreds of dollars more for a current model than for comparable models a year or two ago, and again when they hit another motorist.

One major auto insurer reports that the average claim for damaged cars is $455 this year. This is an increase of 31 per cent over 1971 and a jump of 20 per cent in the past 12 months alone.

A recent industry survey showed that the cost of "crash" parts — the eight major parts most frequently damaged in traffic accidents — is running 25 per cent higher than a year ago.

Some samples: A new fender for a Ford Galaxie 500 cost $74.10 in 1971 and $76.40 in 1974 but surged to $93.55 in 1975.

A replacement hood for a Chevrolet Impala cost $77.95 in 1971. $79.90 in 1974 and $103.80 in 1975.

A door for a Plymouth Fury II cost $120.90 in 1971, $132.18 in 1974 and $178.82 in 1975.

Even the so-called economy cars are in the big-time class when it comes to replacement parts. A fender for an AMC Gremlin has gone from $63.20 in 1971 to $82.95 in 1974 to $99.36 in 1975.

The reason insurance costs have remained fairly stable despite these increases is that the accident rate went down, thanks to the 55-mph limit and the gasoline pinch. That is, the higher cost of each accident was offset by the lower accident rate.

All that began to change around mid - 1974, however, when auto parts prices began to zoom. The result, warn insurance spokesmen, is that insurance premiums are going to have to go up, too.

IT'S UNWIELDY BUT THERE'S NOTHING BETTER

As every schoolboy knows, or is supposed to know, the American government is a system of checks and balances, with power divided among an executive branch, a legislative branch and a judicial branch.

But operating within this basic structure is another system of checks and balances, not written down in the Constitution and never contemplated by the framers of that document.

It is most apparent in Congress, where the division of power between the two major parties, although seldom equal and often greatly unbalanced, nevertheless serves as a check against the complete domination of that body by any one political ideology.

Even the power of the Supreme Court, however, is tempered by divisions within itself, and the voice of one court's minority often becomes the majority opinion of a succeeding court.

"The very process of dissent," says Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., "tends to minimize arbitrary decision making, assures a rigorous internal testing of the majority view and bespeaks the vitality of the court as an institution."

Justice Powell made this remark in an address before the recent meeting of the American Bar Association in Montreal, where he answered critics who charge that the Supreme Court's frequent 5-4 splits on major decisions are evidence that it is so philosophically divided it should not rule on novel issues.

Not so, says Powell. The strong differences indicated by the court's dissenters are both inevitable and "relfect a strength—not a weakness—of the court."

It can be argued that these unwritten "checks and balances" serve as often to check progress and change and overbalance the rights of the minority against those of the majority as do the written ones to prevent an aggrandizement of power by any one of the three branches. Much more efficient and responsive to the popular will, some say, is the British system, in which prime minister and Parliamanet are always of the same party and no Supreme Court exercises an ultimate veto over their actions.

Actually the American system is a consequence of the Founding Fathers' distrust of overweening parliamentary rule, against which they revolted. Curious and unwieldy it may sometimes seem, but it has, on the whole, served us well for 186 years.

XXX

MEDICAL HORSE SENSE

During 1974, the question of a federal national health insurance program is to be the subject of lengthy congressional debate. In the course of the first round of congressional hearings on national health insurance in December of 1973, a number of witnesses, in testimony before the House Health Subcommittee, made certain points concerning national health insurance that should not become obscured in the smoke of political controversy.

In the first place, the witnesses warned that just providing federal funds to pay doctor and hospital bills would merely add to inflation of health care costs without improving the health of Americans. Obviously, the supply of medical services must be kept in balance with the demand for them. Facilities for care must be enlarged in step with expanded plans for paying for care. It was pointed out that, to a great degree, environment, life-style, poverty and other factors contributed to poor health conditions. In general, the witnesses warned against expecting any NHI program to solve all of the health care problems of the nation. These witnesses ranged from the former chief actuary of the Social Security Administration to California's secretary of health. The latter stressed the importance of establishing federal policy in cooperation with organized medicine and in relation to the availability of medical services.

Admittedly, reservations such as these provide poor material for political campaigns in behalf of national health insurance. But, at the same time, they draw attention to elemental considerations that can make or break the quality of health care in the U.S. The public should be wary of any health program that promises too much and demands too little in the way of citizen responsibility.

CONTINUING DRAMA OF OF THE OIL CRISIS

Americans await with bated carburetors the next chapter in the oil drama. If nothing happens in Washington in the meantime, it will begin September 1 when all price controls over domestically produced oil are slated to expire.

President Ford, who wanted the controls eliminated gradually over a period of threee years, warns that immediate decontrol will mean a jump of 7 cents in the price of a gallon of gasoline.

Congress, which doesn't know what it wants, continues to debate plans for conservation, taxes on oil company "windfall" profits and rebates to every American over 18—all of which, say some critics, amounts to as futile an exercise as rearranging the deck chairs on the Titanic.

What will happen? According to the opponents of any kind of price controls, the most consistently outspoken of which has been the Wall Street Journal, gasoline prices will not jump this fall and could actually decline eventually because of the incentive the oil companies would have to undertake new exploration and drilling.

A case can be made that the President's plan of gradual decontrol would do nothing to help supply; the oil companies would simply wait out the three years. During that time, Americans' demand for petroleum, even though slackened from its pre-1973 pace, would continue to rise and this would hardly force down prices.

There are other complications. A U.S. court has ruled unconstitutional the President's imposition of a $2 a barrel tariff on imported oil. The White House says it intended to lift the tariff anyway, though it may appeal to the Supreme Court just out of principle. This should have some beneficial effect on gasoline prices.

But then there are the foreign producers. OPEC has another meeting scheduled for September and its members may very well raise their prices by the amount of the tariff, and probably more.

What about conservation? The 4,000-member Independent Petroleum Association of America, which speaks for the little producers as the American Petroleum Institute does for the biggies, has told a congressional committee that even with maximum conservation efforts, by 1985 domestic crude oil output will be 5.5 million barrels a day short of what is needed to reduce dependence on foreign oil to "acceptable levels." That is unless domestic production is substantially increased between now and then.

Assuming that Alaskan oil, due to begin flowing in 1977, will be providing 2 million barrels a day by 1985, production in the lower 48 states would still have to be increased by 3.5 million barrels daily to meet expected demand, says the IPA.

Hughes Tool Company, the largest supplier of rock drilling bits, recently told a group of investment bankers in New York pretty much the same thing. The country needs, it estimates, about 900 more drilling rigs between now and 1980 just to stay 75 per cent—not 100 per cent—self-sufficient in oil production and free of excessive imports. And the average cost of a land drilling rig today is $4 million and for an offshore one upwards of $60 million.

There is, obviously, no simple answer to the oil problem. It takes vast sums of money and great risks to find and bring in oil. While Congress and the administration have a duty to monitor the profits of oil companies to protect the public from price gouging, they must also face market realities.

We are due, it would seem, for a return to a free market in oil. Whether its realities will be pleasant or otherwise for energy hungry Americans is a question we shall soon learn the answer to.

WE'VE FINALLY DONE IT

..For years, we have applauded all those who have kicked the daylights out of the doctors who provide medical services, utility companies who provide electric power, oil companies who provide petroleum products, pharmaceutical companies who develop medicines, paper manufacturers who make bathroom tissue, insurance companies that pay us when our house burns down, automobile manufacturers who make our cars and just about everything else that has moved across the private enterprise, economic landscape. If you were highly vocal, articulate and a zealot for some good cause, the public ear was waiting.

Though we are still vastly ahead of other nations in material affluence, our penchant for self-critixism and restriction of the most productive elements of our economic system have finally brought a state of relative shortage to the land of plenty. Might it not be a good idea, while we are now learning to use our resources more wisely, to also find ways to utilize, rather than penalize, the business organizations that have the ability but in many cases have actuallyk been prevented from producing the things we need?

Labor Electrifying Democrats: Meany's drive to purge Ford Swinging Into high Electronic Gear

WASHINGTON — This nation's most powerful political leader, directing the sleekest, expertly oiled, most far-flung political machine, meaning labor chief of chiefs George Meany, is radiating signals as he does 8-inch Jamaican cigars. And they add up to the directive that Jerry Ford must be purged from the White House next year.

In private Meany is reported by intimates as saying that though Ford is a "nice guy" he is not "competent" to lead this nation; has no foreign affairs expertise, is brutalizing this country's prestige by retaining Henry Kissinger (whom Meany loathes), and is too close to the nation's leading industrialists.

President Ford and some of his Oval Office strategists know of this definitive AFL-CIO split with the 1972-type political neutrality. The President is working on his calendar so he can, if possible, address the massive national labor convention in San Francisco early in October -- and reply tangentially to the message flowing from Meany's executive suite to labor's activists everywhere.

Meanwhile, inside word is Meany has hit the go-for-broke button on labor's highly electronic political machine for a drive to give labor the second most powerful bloc of Democratic convention delegates. Gov. George Wallace will romp in first with over 800 votes.

The signals for an AFL-CIO Democratic convention delegate control campaign are as plentiful as New York pickets. First, back in 1970, Meany in his traditional off-the-record August lunch said the Democratic party was disintegrating and in the hands of "extremists."

The other day at the August 1975 lunch Meany indicated that a "solid Democratic" liberal such as Harry Truman could win the presidency.

Labor strategy now is to insure that Meany's special-type Democratic liberal first wins the nomination. And its national machine in the highest gear.

Day and night Al Barkan, director of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE) is on the phone. Word comes -- get up to Boston for a Northeast COPE conference to make certain the Democrat wins the New Hampshire runoff election. Get set for a heavy registration drive so "we" don't lose a single vote. Look at what happened in New Hampshire last time because of a swing of a single vote or two.

Letters follow. Get your union into the registration drive. Or there are calls for more membership lists for the electronic data processing – labor's computers are now replete with 11 million unioin members' names and addresses. That's about all the computer programmers find it worth handling. The rest of labor's membership is in low population or small states where elctronic printouts just don't pay.

No ethnic, racial or craft group is ignored. But the actual delegate campaign isn't and won't be done in the official name of COPE or the AFL-CIO state Federations o Labor. Technically they're nuetral. However, the word has gone to the big national unions to get into all 33 primary fights: campaign for a favorite son! Or for Sen. Birch Bayh, whom Meany long has liked. Or back the Democratic governor. Or stay uncommitted. But get those delegates. Then they can stonewall George Wallace in Madison Square Garden.

For example, there is the Labor Committee for Political Action in New York state. It's headed by co-chairmen Anthony Scotto, longshoremen's vice president and Howard Samuel, men's clothing workers veep. Behind it is the influential political personality of the Seafarers' Paul Hall. The committee was launched this summer to make certain the old McGovern New Politics crowd won't get the big delegation by default. So, the committee probably will pledge itself to Gov. Hugh Carey, who'd sure like the national vice presidential nomination.

In Illinois the delegate-grabbing operation is tied in with the perennial Mayor Daley. In California, the machine is in the hands of Meany's close friend and ally, Jack Henning, chief of the state's powerful labor fedeartion. So it goes across the nation -- a pulsating, well-financed, heavily manpowered machine.

Some national AFL-CIO leaders actually expect endorsement of the Democratic party by the national AFL-CIO convention as early as next month. But this seems premature. It would give Meany no elbow room when it comes down to swinging either to Sens. Humphrey, Bayh or Glenn or to somenew faces such as Florida's Gov. Reubin Askew or Minnesota's Gov. Wendell Anderson.

And now there's no influential force left inside labor to battle for a 1972-type neutrality. President Ford would have had the sophisticated, vociferous and influential maritime labor -- which comes with a built-in political machine -- fighting for him if he had not broken with "them" on such issues as grain and Soviet shipping. Now Mr. Ford hasn't any strong voice battling for him "on the line." Now "we're going to sleep when the neutrality issue comes up," say the erstwhile pro-Ford waterfront labor leaders. And now, in his purge campaign, Meany's problem is finding another Harry Truman.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Play-for Pay Continues with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — A federal crackdown on "payola" has failed to stop disc jockeys from taking bribes in return for playing records on the air.

This has been attested by Mike Viner who headed Pride Records, in a dramatic, confidential statement to the Federal Communications Commission. He is the first important executive to speak out agains corruption in the record industry.

"The record business, with a handful of notable exceptions, is filled with dishonesty, deceit and all manner of immorality ...," Viner declares in his statement. "I am guilty. Furthermore, every single executive I know in the record business is also guilty. The only variable is the degree ...

"Payola," he adds, from personal experience, "exists today to a far greater depth than ever before." His statement provides names, places and overt acts.

The story goes back to March 1972, when we wrote a series of columns exposing the play-for-pay racket. We told how record companies, in their frantic effort to promote hits, offered free Las Vegas vacations, furnished prostitutes, provided automobiles and paid cash under the table to disc jockeys, program directors and other record pushere.

Viner has now authorized us to reveal that he assisted us with out 1972 series. He was then a young executive for MGM Records which, though not guiltless, was far cleaner than msot of its competitors.

Viner was sick to the stomach of the corruption in his industry. He helped us to document the sordid details in the hope that it would bring reforms.

The FCC, shaken by our series, invited us to produce our evidence. Without revealing sources, we cooperated with the FCC investigators who were skeptical at first but who, nevertheless, followed up our leads.

This resulted in the indictment this year of 19 record industry figures, including four who had headed record companies. Fourgrand juries participated in the crackdown.

Yet payola, according to Viner, is still rampant. Apparently, it will take more than criminal indictments to stop it. The FCC may have to revoke the licenses of radio stations whose disc jockeys and progam directors are on the take.

During our 1972 investigation, Viner agonized over whether to let us use his name and finally decided against it. The publicity, he feared, would destroy his career. But now he is willing to take the risk in the desperate hope that the corrupt record industry can be cleaned up and restructured.

He, therefore, has delivered a detailed, first-hand account of the corrupt practices to FCC Chairman Richard Wiley. Viner's statement cits a steady stream of payola, ranging from LasVgas and Hawaiian vacations to loans that are never paid back.

A record company, for example, isn't supposed to spend more than $25 to entertain someone from the radio industry. Yet "the price of plane fares to Las Vegas from all over the country, hotel accommodations, food and entertainment often run 20 times that amount," Viner alleges.

He names one of the "most important" consultants in the radio industry, Bill Drake, who with his party allegedly ran up a Las Vegas hotel bill "close to $3,000." Declares Viner: "I had to sign ... I was aghast."

A spokesman for the Los Angeles consultant vigorously denied that Drake had been involved in any wrongdoing.

Many an influential disc jockey, according to the Viner document, has accepted an all-expense-paid excursion to Las Vegas. As often as not, he might "call up the company and ask that his girl friend -- or, in some cases, even his wife -- be allowed to join him ...," reports Viner. "The company was expected to pick up the second tab," too.

As for single radio men, alleges Viner, they "expected and got call girls, which (the company) ended paying for under the heading of entertainment expeneses."

He also describes how his former company, MGM Records, financed a fabulous Las Vegas party to promote two of its singing stars, Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme.

The company brought its major distributors to Las Vegas for the bash. Their expenses were paid indirectly, says Viner, "by giving them free albums ... which the distributors would resell."

The cost of the free albums came out of the royalties of MGM's performers, he claims. Thereby, other singing groups "like the Osmonds ... actually ended up footing the bill for part of the Steve and Eydie promotion."

MGM Records, it should be noted, has subsequently changed ownership and management. In any case, a spokesman said the parent company had no knowledge of any payola.

According to Viner's account, disc jockeys and program directors have been paid off in sports coats, "season tickets for their favorite sporting events or an Hawaiian vacation."

Others are paid off in cash. As he puts it, they say: "That'll cost $300 or $500 or sometimes even $1,000.;; Still others will ask: "Can you lend me a couple of hundred bucks?" Then they will quickly add: "By the way, I'm considering going on that new record of yours."

Declares Viner: "If you lend the money, you'll neve see it again. If you don't, your record probably won't get played, and months of work and hope may go down the drain."

A company's survival depends largely on the "air play" of its records. Failure to distribute payola, therefore, could bring disaster. This, complains Viner bitterly, is the industry's "rotten dilemma."

JUSTICE

New Madrid County courts are something else!!!

And that is perhaps the understatement of the century.

Daily Standard sports editor Ron Jaynes has had his share of trouble with the authorities in NMC ever since his articles of a year ago when he wrote stories about sheriff W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey and prosecuting attorney Hall E. Hunter which were picked up by the St. Louis Globe Democrat and the Associated Press.

Only four days after The Daily Standard carried a news story about Hunter's arrest by federal game agents, Jaynes was arrested by New Madrid county authorities on charge of selling mortgaged property. That charge was dismissed by special magistrate judge Sidney Chaffin in a preliminary hearing. Hunter met with a pair of the papers executives and protested that Jaynes charge was never published. But it was pointed out that nothing was on record and Jaynes hadn't appeared in court yet. When he did appear the story was ran.

Jaynes was forced to post a $1,000 bond on the charge while at the same time a man charged with assault with a deadly weapon had to put up only $500 bond.

Only recently Jaynes was fined $100 in Parma city court for allegedly assaulting two grown men. The fine was handed down by the father-in-law of one of the men involved in the incident.

A brother of the two who were allegedly assaulted, Doy Hunt, was given a six month suspended jail sentence upon payment of $25 fine and court costs in New Madrid county circuit court earlier this week. He was charged with exhibiting dangerous and deadly weapons -- a knife and lug wrench -- on June 25 in the presence of Paul Miller, who was with Jaynes at the time of the alledged assault and has charges pending in the city court of Parma in relation to the case. Miller was chased around a car by Hunt with the weapons.

Is this justice ... or is it harassment? But that's the way of New Madrid's system.

A MIGHTY FACTOR

The economic importance of the automobile industry has been estimated at $77 billion. Agriculture, on the other hand, accounts for over $400 billion in the nation's economy.

PARTS SURPASS THE WHOLE

Car owners are getting hit twice by inflation — once when they lay out hundreds of dollars more for a current model than for comparable models a year or two ago, and again when they hit another motorist.

One major auto insurer reports that the average claim for damaged cars is $455 this year. This is an increase of 31 per cent over 1971 and a jump of 20 per cent in the past 12 months alone.

A recent industry survey showed that the cost of "crash" parts — the eight major parts most frequently damaged in traffic accidents — is running 25 per cent higher than a year ago.

Some samples: A new fender for a Ford Galaxie 500 cost $74.10 in 1971 and $76.40 in 1974 but surged to $93.55 in 1975.

A replacement hood for a Chevrolet Impala cost $77.95 in 1971. $79.90 in 1974 and $103.80 in 1975.

A door for a Plymouth Fury II cost $120.90 in 1971, $132.18 in 1974 and $178.82 in 1975.

Even the so-called economy cars are in the big-time class when it comes to replacement parts. A fender for an AMC Gremlin has gone from $63.20 in 1971 to $82.95 in 1974 to $99.36 in 1975.

The reason insurance costs have remained fairly stable despite these increases is that the accident rate went down, thanks to the 55-mph limit and the gasoline pinch. That is, the higher cost of each accident was offset by the lower accident rate.

All that began to change around mid - 1974, however, when auto parts prices began to zoom. The result, warn insurance spokesmen, is that insurance premiums are going to have to go up, too.

IT'S UNWIELDY BUT THERE'S NOTHING BETTER

As every schoolboy knows, or is supposed to know, the American government is a system of checks and balances, with power divided among an executive branch, a legislative branch and a judicial branch.

But operating within this basic structure is another system of checks and balances, not written down in the Constitution and never contemplated by the framers of that document.

It is most apparent in Congress, where the division of power between the two major parties, although seldom equal and often greatly unbalanced, nevertheless serves as a check against the complete domination of that body by any one political ideology.

Even the power of the Supreme Court, however, is tempered by divisions within itself, and the voice of one court's minority often becomes the majority opinion of a succeeding court.

"The very process of dissent," says Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., "tends to minimize arbitrary decision making, assures a rigorous internal testing of the majority view and bespeaks the vitality of the court as an institution."

Justice Powell made this remark in an address before the recent meeting of the American Bar Association in Montreal, where he answered critics who charge that the Supreme Court's frequent 5-4 splits on major decisions are evidence that it is so philosophically divided it should not rule on novel issues.

Not so, says Powell. The strong differences indicated by the court's dissenters are both inevitable and "relfect a strength—not a weakness—of the court."

It can be argued that these unwritten "checks and balances" serve as often to check progress and change and overbalance the rights of the minority against those of the majority as do the written ones to prevent an aggrandizement of power by any one of the three branches. Much more efficient and responsive to the popular will, some say, is the British system, in which prime minister and Parliamanet are always of the same party and no Supreme Court exercises an ultimate veto over their actions.

Actually the American system is a consequence of the Founding Fathers' distrust of overweening parliamentary rule, against which they revolted. Curious and unwieldy it may sometimes seem, but it has, on the whole, served us well for 186 years.

XXX

MEDICAL HORSE SENSE

During 1974, the question of a federal national health insurance program is to be the subject of lengthy congressional debate. In the course of the first round of congressional hearings on national health insurance in December of 1973, a number of witnesses, in testimony before the House Health Subcommittee, made certain points concerning national health insurance that should not become obscured in the smoke of political controversy.

In the first place, the witnesses warned that just providing federal funds to pay doctor and hospital bills would merely add to inflation of health care costs without improving the health of Americans. Obviously, the supply of medical services must be kept in balance with the demand for them. Facilities for care must be enlarged in step with expanded plans for paying for care. It was pointed out that, to a great degree, environment, life-style, poverty and other factors contributed to poor health conditions. In general, the witnesses warned against expecting any NHI program to solve all of the health care problems of the nation. These witnesses ranged from the former chief actuary of the Social Security Administration to California's secretary of health. The latter stressed the importance of establishing federal policy in cooperation with organized medicine and in relation to the availability of medical services.

Admittedly, reservations such as these provide poor material for political campaigns in behalf of national health insurance. But, at the same time, they draw attention to elemental considerations that can make or break the quality of health care in the U.S. The public should be wary of any health program that promises too much and demands too little in the way of citizen responsibility.

CONTINUING DRAMA OF OF THE OIL CRISIS

Americans await with bated carburetors the next chapter in the oil drama. If nothing happens in Washington in the meantime, it will begin September 1 when all price controls over domestically produced oil are slated to expire.

President Ford, who wanted the controls eliminated gradually over a period of threee years, warns that immediate decontrol will mean a jump of 7 cents in the price of a gallon of gasoline.

Congress, which doesn't know what it wants, continues to debate plans for conservation, taxes on oil company "windfall" profits and rebates to every American over 18—all of which, say some critics, amounts to as futile an exercise as rearranging the deck chairs on the Titanic.

What will happen? According to the opponents of any kind of price controls, the most consistently outspoken of which has been the Wall Street Journal, gasoline prices will not jump this fall and could actually decline eventually because of the incentive the oil companies would have to undertake new exploration and drilling.

A case can be made that the President's plan of gradual decontrol would do nothing to help supply; the oil companies would simply wait out the three years. During that time, Americans' demand for petroleum, even though slackened from its pre-1973 pace, would continue to rise and this would hardly force down prices.

There are other complications. A U.S. court has ruled unconstitutional the President's imposition of a $2 a barrel tariff on imported oil. The White House says it intended to lift the tariff anyway, though it may appeal to the Supreme Court just out of principle. This should have some beneficial effect on gasoline prices.

But then there are the foreign producers. OPEC has another meeting scheduled for September and its members may very well raise their prices by the amount of the tariff, and probably more.

What about conservation? The 4,000-member Independent Petroleum Association of America, which speaks for the little producers as the American Petroleum Institute does for the biggies, has told a congressional committee that even with maximum conservation efforts, by 1985 domestic crude oil output will be 5.5 million barrels a day short of what is needed to reduce dependence on foreign oil to "acceptable levels." That is unless domestic production is substantially increased between now and then.

Assuming that Alaskan oil, due to begin flowing in 1977, will be providing 2 million barrels a day by 1985, production in the lower 48 states would still have to be increased by 3.5 million barrels daily to meet expected demand, says the IPA.

Hughes Tool Company, the largest supplier of rock drilling bits, recently told a group of investment bankers in New York pretty much the same thing. The country needs, it estimates, about 900 more drilling rigs between now and 1980 just to stay 75 per cent—not 100 per cent—self-sufficient in oil production and free of excessive imports. And the average cost of a land drilling rig today is $4 million and for an offshore one upwards of $60 million.

There is, obviously, no simple answer to the oil problem. It takes vast sums of money and great risks to find and bring in oil. While Congress and the administration have a duty to monitor the profits of oil companies to protect the public from price gouging, they must also face market realities.

We are due, it would seem, for a return to a free market in oil. Whether its realities will be pleasant or otherwise for energy hungry Americans is a question we shall soon learn the answer to.

WE'VE FINALLY DONE IT

..For years, we have applauded all those who have kicked the daylights out of the doctors who provide medical services, utility companies who provide electric power, oil companies who provide petroleum products, pharmaceutical companies who develop medicines, paper manufacturers who make bathroom tissue, insurance companies that pay us when our house burns down, automobile manufacturers who make our cars and just about everything else that has moved across the private enterprise, economic landscape. If you were highly vocal, articulate and a zealot for some good cause, the public ear was waiting.

Though we are still vastly ahead of other nations in material affluence, our penchant for self-critixism and restriction of the most productive elements of our economic system have finally brought a state of relative shortage to the land of plenty. Might it not be a good idea, while we are now learning to use our resources more wisely, to also find ways to utilize, rather than penalize, the business organizations that have the ability but in many cases have actuallyk been prevented from producing the things we need?

Labor Electrifying Democrats: Meany's drive to purge Ford Swinging Into high Electronic Gear

WASHINGTON — This nation's most powerful political leader, directing the sleekest, expertly oiled, most far-flung political machine, meaning labor chief of chiefs George Meany, is radiating signals as he does 8-inch Jamaican cigars. And they add up to the directive that Jerry Ford must be purged from the White House next year.

In private Meany is reported by intimates as saying that though Ford is a "nice guy" he is not "competent" to lead this nation; has no foreign affairs expertise, is brutalizing this country's prestige by retaining Henry Kissinger (whom Meany loathes), and is too close to the nation's leading industrialists.

President Ford and some of his Oval Office strategists know of this definitive AFL-CIO split with the 1972-type political neutrality. The President is working on his calendar so he can, if possible, address the massive national labor convention in San Francisco early in October -- and reply tangentially to the message flowing from Meany's executive suite to labor's activists everywhere.

Meanwhile, inside word is Meany has hit the go-for-broke button on labor's highly electronic political machine for a drive to give labor the second most powerful bloc of Democratic convention delegates. Gov. George Wallace will romp in first with over 800 votes.

The signals for an AFL-CIO Democratic convention delegate control campaign are as plentiful as New York pickets. First, back in 1970, Meany in his traditional off-the-record August lunch said the Democratic party was disintegrating and in the hands of "extremists."

The other day at the August 1975 lunch Meany indicated that a "solid Democratic" liberal such as Harry Truman could win the presidency.

Labor strategy now is to insure that Meany's special-type Democratic liberal first wins the nomination. And its national machine in the highest gear.

Day and night Al Barkan, director of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE) is on the phone. Word comes -- get up to Boston for a Northeast COPE conference to make certain the Democrat wins the New Hampshire runoff election. Get set for a heavy registration drive so "we" don't lose a single vote. Look at what happened in New Hampshire last time because of a swing of a single vote or two.

Letters follow. Get your union into the registration drive. Or there are calls for more membership lists for the electronic data processing -- labor's computers are now replete with 11 million unioin members' names and addresses. That's about all the computer programmers find it worth handling. The rest of labor s membership is in low population or small states where elctronic printouts just don't pay.

No ethnic, racial or craft group is ignored. But the actual delegate campaign isn't and won't be done in the official name of COPE or the AFL-CIO state Federations o Labor. Technically they're nuetral. However, the word has gone to the big national unions to get into all 33 primary fights: campaign for a favorite son! Or for Sen. Birch Bayh, whom Meany long has liked. Or back the Democratic governor. Or stay uncommitted. But get those delegates. Then they can stonewall George Wallace in Madison Square Garden.

For example, there is the Labor Committee for Political Action in New York state. It's headed by co-chairmen Anthony Scotto, longshoremen's vice president and Howard Samuel, men's clothing workers veep. Behind it is the influential political personality of the Seafarers' Paul Hall. The committee was launched this summer to make certain the old McGovern New Politics crowd won't get the big delegation by default. So, the committee probably will pledge itself to Gov. Hugh Carey, who'd sure like the national vice presidential nomination.

In Illinois the delegate-grabbing operation is tied in with the perennial Mayor Daley. In California, the machine is in the hands of Meany's close friend and ally, Jack Henning, chief of the state's powerful labor fedeartion. So it goes across the nation -- a pulsating, well-financed, heavily manpowered machine.

Some national AFL-CIO leaders actually expect endorsement of the Democratic party by the national AFL-CIO convention as early as next month. But this seems premature. It would give Meany no elbow room when it comes down to swinging either to Sens. Humphrey, Bayh or Glenn or to somenew faces such as Florida's Gov. Reubin Askew or Minnesota's Gov. Wendell Anderson.

And now there's no influential force left inside labor to battle for a 1972-type neutrality. President Ford would have had the sophisticated, vociferous and influential maritime labor -- which comes with a built-in political machine -- fighting for him if he had not broken with "them" on such issues as grain and Soviet shipping. Now Mr. Ford hasn't any strong voice battling for him "on the line." Now "we're going to sleep when the neutrality issue comes up," say the erstwhile pro-Ford waterfront labor leaders. And now, in his purge campaign, Meany's problem is finding another Harry Truman.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Play-for Pay Continues with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — A federal crackdown on "payola" has failed to stop disc jockeys from taking bribes in return for playing records on the air.

This has been attested by Mike Viner who headed Pride Records, in a dramatic, confidential statement to the Federal Communications Commission. He is the first important executive to speak out agains corruption in the record industry.

"The record business, with a handful of notable exceptions, is filled with dishonesty, deceit and all manner of immorality ...," Viner declares in his statement. "I am guilty. Furthermore, every single executive I know in the record business is also guilty. The only variable is the degree ...

"Payola," he adds, from personal experience, "exists today to a far greater depth than ever before." His statement provides names, places and overt acts.

The story goes back to March 1972, when we wrote a series of columns exposing the play-for-pay racket. We told how record companies, in their frantic effort to promote hits, offered free Las Vegas vacations, furnished prostitutes, provided automobiles and paid cash under the table to disc jockeys, program directors and other record pushere.

Viner has now authorized us to reveal that he assisted us with out 1972 series. He was then a young executive for MGM Records which, though not guiltless, was far cleaner than msot of its competitors.

Viner was sick to the stomach of the corruption in his industry. He helped us to document the sordid details in the hope that it would bring reforms.

The FCC, shaken by our series, invited us to produce our evidence. Without revealing sources, we cooperated with the FCC investigators who were skeptical at first but who, nevertheless, followed up our leads.

This resulted in the indictment this year of 19 record industry figures, including four who had headed record companies. Fourgrand juries participated in the crackdown.

Yet payola, according to Viner, is still rampant. Apparently, it will take more than criminal indictments to stop it. The FCC may have to revoke the licenses of radio stations whose disc jockeys and progam directors are on the take.

During our 1972 investigation, Viner agonized over whether to let us use his name and finally decided against it. The publicity, he feared, would destroy his career. But now he is willing to take the risk in the desperate hope that the corrupt record industry can be cleaned up and restructured.

He, therefore, has delivered a detailed, first-hand account of the corrupt practices to FCC Chairman Richard Wiley. Viner's statement cits a steady stream of payola, ranging from LasVgas and Hawaiian vacations to loans that are never paid back.

A record company, for example, isn't supposed to spend more than $25 to entertain someone from the radio industry. Yet "the price of plane fares to Las Vegas from all over the country, hotel accommodations, food and entertainment often run 20 times that amount," Viner alleges.

He names one of the "most important" consultants in the radio industry, Bill Drake, who with his party allegedly ran up a Las Vegas hotel bill "close to $3,000." Declares Viner: "I had to sign ... I was aghast."

A spokesman for the Los Angeles consultant vigorously denied that Drake had been involved in any wrongdoing.

Many an influential disc jockey, according to the Viner document, has accepted an all-expense-paid excursion to Las Vegas. As often as not, he might "call up the company and ask that his girl friend -- or, in some cases, even his wife -- be allowed to join him ...," reports Viner. "The company was expected to pick up the second tab," too.

As for single radio men, alleges Viner, they "expected and got call girls, which (the company) ended paying for under the heading of entertainment expeneses."

He also describes how his former company, MGM Records, financed a fabulous Las Vegas party to promote two of its singing stars, Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme.

The company brought its major distributors to Las Vegas for the bash. Their expenses were paid indirectly, says Viner, "by giving them free albums ... which the distributors would resell."

The cost of the free albums came out of the royalties of MGM's performers, he claims. Thereby, other singing groups "like the Osmonds ... actually ended up footing the bill for part of the Steve and Eydie promotion."

MGM Records, it should be noted, has subsequently changed ownership and management. In any case, a spokesman said the parent company had no knowledge of any payola.

According to Viner's account, disc jockeys and program directors have been paid off in sports coats, "season tickets for their favorite sporting events or an Hawaiian vacation."

Others are paid off in cash. As he puts it, they say: "That'll cost $300 or $500 or sometimes even $1,000.;; Still others will ask: "Can you lend me a couple of hundred bucks?" Then they will quickly add: "By the way, I'm considering going on that new record of yours."

Declares Viner: "If you lend the money, you'll neve see it again. If you don't, your record probably won't get played, and months of work and hope may go down the drain."

A company's survival depends largely on the "air play" of its records. Failure to distribute payola, therefore, could bring disaster. This, complains Viner bitterly, is the industry's "rotten dilemma."

Grants approved for long range economic growth

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Approval of grants to continue programs of planning for long-range economic growth and new jobs in two multi-county districts of Missouri has been announced by Wilmer D. Mizell, assistant secretary of commerce for economic development.

The funds, from the Economic Development Administration in the U. S. Department of Commerce, will help defray administrative expenses of the Bootheel Economic Development Council, based in Malden, Mo., and the Southeast Missouri Regional Planning Council, based in Perryville, Mo.

The EDA district program encourages adjacent jurisdictions to work together to solve economic problems and create jobs for the unemployed. EDA recognizes as growth centers those communities which can provide jobs and services for residents of the lagging areas of the district.

The grants approved are:

$45,980 to the Bootheel Economic Development Council, which serves the six-county district composed of Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Scott and Stoddard counties. The growth center is New Madrid. The council will provide $36,570 to complete the $82,550 total program cost.

The EDA grants will pay costs through June 30, 1976.

Grants approved for long range economic growth

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Approval of grants to continue programs of planning for long-range economic growth and new jobs in two multi-county districts of Missouri has been announced by Wilmer D. Mizell, assistant secretary of commerce for economic development.

The funds, from the Economic Development Administration in the U. S. Department of Commerce, will help defray administrative expenses of the Bootheel Economic Development Council, based in Malden, Mo., and the Southeast Missouri Regional Planning Council, based in Perryville, Mo.

The EDA district program encourages adjacent jurisdictions to work together to solve economic problems and create jobs for the unemployed. EDA recognizes as growth centers those communities which can provide jobs and services for residents of the lagging areas of the district.

The grants approved are:

$45,980 to the Bootheel Economic Development Council, which serves the six-county district composed of Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Scott and Stoddard counties. The growth center is New Madrid. The council will provide $36,570 to complete the $82,550 total program cost.

The EDA grants will pay costs through June 30, 1976.

Egypt levies a heavy tax on gambling, collecting 25 per cent.

County library lists new books available

PORTAGEVILLE—The book, "A Study of History," by Arnold Toynbee, was recently donated to the New Madrid County Library.

The history was given to the library in memory of Mrs. P.M. Mayfield by Jack and Dorothy Miller of Bryan, Tex.

Other new books in the county library are: "All About House Plants", by William Davidson; "A Step by Step Guide to Making Artificial Flowers", by Paula Critchley and Pamela Westland; "The Complete Book of Paper Antiques", by Adelaide Hechtlinger and Wilbur Cross; "How to Mend Your Treasurers Porcelain-(China) Glass-Pottery", by Laurence Adams Malone; "Foxfire", edited by Eliot Wigginton; "A History of the London Taxicab," by G.N. Georgano; and "The American Car Since 1775", by the editors of Automobile Quarterly.

Girl Scouts plan upcoming events

Girl Scout leaders met recently to plan the year's events at the Security Federal Savings & Loan Association community room.

Tuesday and Wednesday, a Girl Scout uniform sale and exchange will be from 8 a.m. to noon in the old Kentucky Fried Chicken building in the Midtowner Village Shopping Center. Uniforms may be purchased from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. both days.

Girl Scout troops will exhibit a float in the Cotton Carnival parade Sept. 27. Troops will meet at Woodlawn Avenue and N. Ranney Street at 9:30 p.m.

Also on Sept. 27, an eco-fun day for Brownies will be from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Camp Latonka near lake Wappapello. Registration deadline is Sept. 19 and the session will teach youngsters the importance of soil, common birds and plants and how to recycle products.

Four basic leadership training sessions will be Sept. 16 and Sept. 23 from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the First Christian Church; Oct. 14 from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at the First Christian Church for those who miss the September training session; and Oct. 7 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Camp Latonka near Lake Wappapello for basic outdoor leadership training.

New leaders receiving service pins were Mrs. John Burton, Mrs. John Nettler, Mrs. Larry Vollertsen, Mrs. Larry Lindsey, Mrs. Christopher Wren, Mrs. Tom Pinkstaff, Mrs. Pat Critchlow, Mrs. James Shoup, Mrs. Larry Steward, Mrs. Sandee Harrell, Mrs. Leroy Hardin and Mrs. Norman Spitzmiller of Sikeston; Mrs. David Schneider, Mrs. David Whitten, Mrs. Mary Brooks and Ruth Ann Outland of Matthews; and Betti Graviett of Vanduser.

The next meeting will be Oct. 8 at 9 a.m. in the First Christian Church.

Couples walk down aisle

Long-Kelley

Miss Susan Long and Jimmie Dale Kelley exchanged marriage vows Aug. 22 at the Tanner Street Church of God. The Rev. Vernon Guttenfelder officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Betty Long, 506 Cole St., Sikeston, Mo., and Henry Long of Anaheim, Calif. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kelley, 122 St. George Lane.

The bride wore a white gown with blue daisy trim. A light blue hat was accented with white streamers and she carried a bouquet of white daisies and white carnations entwined with ribbons and baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Linda Miederhoff of Morehouse and best man was Glen Kelley of Sikeston, brother of the bridegroom.

Ushers were Mark Kelley and Ricky Penrod.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

Mrs. Kelley is a 1971 graduate of Sikeston High School and is a secretary for M & H Drug Distributors.

Kelley, a 1972 graduate of East Prairie High School, is employed by Steward Steel Supply Co.

The couple lives on Route Two.

Woodson-Winfield

Miss Jane Kathryn Woodson and James Earl Winfield Jr. were married recently at the Green Chapel Baptist Church. The Rev. Frank Jones officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Daisy Brown, Route Four, and James Woodson Jr., also Route Four, Sikeston. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Winfield of Oran.

The bride wore a polyester gown with an A-line silhouette. The dress was styled with a transparent yoke, wedding band neckline, empire bodice and bishop sleeves. The bodice, sleeves and hemline were trimmed with shirred lace as was a chapel- length veil. She carried a bouquet of daisies and roses.

Maid of honor was Mary Winfield of Oran and matron of honor was Mrs. Annie Avance of Sikeston, sister of the bride. Bridesmaid was Patricia Williams of St. Louis.

Best man was Willie Lee Winfield of Oran. Groomsmen were Sammy Williams of St. Louis; James Johnson, Jarry Johnson and Johnny Avance of Benton and Sammy Brown of Sikeston.

Mrs. Winfield is a 1975 graduate of Scott Central High School near Morley. Winfield is a 1974 graduate of McKinley High School near St. Louis.

The couple lives on Oran Route One.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the church.

Mrs. Weeks attends Lilbourn High School and Weeks is a 1973 graduate. He is employed with his father.

The couple lives in Lilbourn.

Ann Landers

Mother advises her son to scream his head off

Annie Old Girl: You must have donated your brains to the Hadassah rummage sale. I refer to "Concerned Mom" who was afraid to let her seven-year-old boy go to the men's room by himself because "the woods are full of perverts."

Your suggestion to buttonhole a kindly gentleman on his way in and ask him to watch over the kid was idiotic. Please explain how a mother is supposed to pick out the "kindly gentleman" from the sweet old geezer who is as queer as a $3 bill?

More realistic advice would have been to tell the boy, "Go in alone and if anyone tries to molest you, scream your head off." If he doesn't know what "molest" means, she should tell him. Sex education should start early. -- Louisville Reader.

Dear Lou: You may have a point, but I doubt that any geezer, no matter how funny, would take such a chance with the kid's mother standing outside the door. Your suggestion that young boys be warned against molesters and that they yell their heads off is excellent. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am engaged to a girl who is giving me a hard time. She says I'm too possessive and overly suspicious. She doesn't act like a person who is about to be married. You be the judge.

In the last three weeks, Hilda has "disappeared" four times. When I call her apartment, her roommate says, "I don't know where she is. Maybe she's at her mothers's." I call her mother and she's not threre. When Hilda turns up after two or three days and I ask where she'w been she says, "Don't be such a male chauvinist pig."

I paid $255 for an engagement ring. We plan to be married in three months. But I worry about a girl who stays lost for two and three days and then refuses to account for herself.

Does marriage settle people down? What do you think? -- Once Burnt, Twice Shy

Dear Burnt: I think you'd better prepare for a life of grief if you marry a girl who specializes in disappearing and refuses to account for her absence. Don't expect her to settle down merely because she has a wedding ring on her finger. The engagement ring doesn't seem to mean much.

Dear Ann Landers: I always thought your columnwas to read -- not to write to. But here I am, looking for help.

I'm a boy 16, with lots of friends but no friendships.

No one ever calls me to go anyplace. I'm always the one who does the calling. Usually the guys I call have "other plans." I don't know if their excuses are legitimate or not.

My parents are always pushing me to go out, but I hate to go alone and I can't seem to get anyone to go with me. Maybe I'm a born loner. Do other people feel as I do or am I some kind of freak? Please help me. -- No Name

Dear N.N.: There are millions of people like you. In fact, popular teenagers sometimes get the idea they have no friends. It's part of growing up. You say "the guys" usually have other plans. There's another sex. Girls. Have you tried them? I'll bet at least a dozen who go to your school would be thrilled to get a phone call from you.

Give it a try, and let me know how you make out. Er . . . I mean get along.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex -- Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cent in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

"more spice than everything nice"

Rockefellers rejuvenate vice presidential home

WASHINGTON (AP) — It will take a bit of living to make the house a home, Happy Rockefeller says of the nation's first official vice presidential residence.

"I'm crazy about it. I couldn't help but like it," the wife of Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller said Sunday as she previewed the 94-year-old white frame Victorian residence on the grounds of the Naval Observatory.

"It's my baby — it takes a baby a while to grow but it's been born," she said of the home. "This is just its entrance into the world."

The Rockefellers formally opened the new residence Sunday night with the first of a series of parties at which President and Mrs. Ford and their daughter, Susan, led the guest list.

The President and his wife danced to show tunes after taking a tour ofthe home, which formerly was the residence of the chief of naval operations.

"It's very nice," Mrs. Ford said after the tour.

White, gray and beige are the predominant colors in the six-bedroom house as a setting for a wide ranging collection of artworks that includes 19th-century American seascapes, Ivory Coast wood carvings, Korean chests, and the famous $35,000 Max Ernst bed purchasedby Rockefeller.

Personal Rockefeller touches already in the house include a golden eagle over the entrance to the dining room. Mrs. Rockefeller said, "I took it off Nelson's wall in Maine."

And nearby is an old-fashioned wooden swing hanging from a huge tree ready for use by the two young Rockefeller sons.

About $311,000 has been spent to convert the house into a suitable residence for the vice president, a move prompted largely by security considerations.

These included converting one of the two wine cellers into a communications system and installing Secret Service electric eyes.

But Mrs. Rockefeller stressed the house "is supposed to be a family home. This is really, you have to understand, a private home."

Mrs. Rockefeller was questioned most frequently about what was described on a posted sign in the master bedroom as "the mysterious and poetic 'Cage+Bed.'"

Asked what the spread was made of, she explained: "dipped mink — that's not the best."

Girl Scouts plan upcoming events

Girl Scout leaders met recently to plan the year's events at the Security Federal Savings & Loan Association community room.

Tuesday and Wednesday, a Girl Scout uniform sale and exchange will be from 8 a.m. to noon in the old Kentucky Fried Chicken building in the Midtowner Village Shopping Center. Uniforms may be purchased from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. both days.

Girl Scout troops will exhibit a float in the Cotton Carnival parade Sept. 27. Troops will meet at Woodlawn Avenue and N. Ranney Street at 9:30 p.m.

Also on Sept. 27, an eco-fun day for Brownies will be from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Camp Latonka near lake Wappapello. Registration deadline is Sept. 19 and the session will teach youngsters the importance of soil, common birds and plants and how to recycle products.

Four basic leadership training sessions will be Sept. 16 and Sept. 23 from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the First Christian Church; Oct. 14 from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at the First Christian Church for those who miss the September training session; and Oct. 7 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Camp Latonka near Lake Wappapello for basic outdoor leadership training.

New leaders receiving service pins were Mrs. John Burton, Mrs. John Nettler, Mrs. Larry Vollertsen, Mrs. Larry Lindsey, Mrs. Christopher Wren, Mrs. Tom Pinkstaff, Mrs. Pat Critchlow, Mrs. James Shoup, Mrs. Larry Steward, Mrs. Sandee Harrell, Mrs. Leroy Hardin and Mrs. Norman Spitzmiller of Sikeston; Mrs. David Schneider, Mrs. David Whitten, Mrs. Mary Brooks and Ruth Ann Outland of Matthews; and Betti Graviett of Vanduser.

The next meeting will be Oct. 8 at 9 a.m. in the First Christian Church.

Household hints

Brown sugar contains more calories than white sugar-because of a higher moisture content and, therefore, weighs more than granulated sugar. The caloric difference is six calories per tablespoon.

Correction

The Daily Standard incorrectly reported in its Saturday edition that the former Diana Lynn Johnson married Julius Fredrick. She married Julius. Fredrick Burgess and they live at 129 Third St. We regret the error.

Couples walk down aisle

Long-Kelley

Miss Susan Long and Jimmie Dale Kelley exchanged marriage vows Aug. 22 at the Tanner Street Church of God. The Rev. Vernon Guttenfelder officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Betty Long, 506 Cole St., Sikeston, Mo., and Henry Long of Anaheim, Calif. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kelley, 122 St. George Lane.

The bride wore a white gown with blue daisy trim. A light blue hat was accented with white streamers and she carried a bouquet of white daisies and white carnations entwined with ribbons and baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Linda Miederhoff of Morehouse and best man was Glen Kelley of Sikeston, brother of the bridegroom.

Ushers were Mark Kelley and Ricky Penrod.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

Mrs. Kelley is a 1971 graduate of Sikeston High School and is a secretary for M & H Drug Distributors.

Kelley, a 1972 graduate of East Prairie High School, is employed by Steward Steel Supply Co.

The couple lives on Route Two.

Woodson-Winfield

Miss Jane Kathryn Woodson and James Earl Winfield Jr. were married recently at the Green Chapel Baptist Church. The Rev. Frank Jones officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Daisy Brown, Route Four, and James Woodson Jr., also Route Four, Sikeston. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Winfield of Oran.

The bride wore a polyester gown with an A-line silhouette. The dress was styled with a transparent yoke, wedding band neckline, empire bodice and bishop sleeves. The bodice, sleeves and hemline were trimmed with shirred lace as was a chapel- length veil. She carried a bouquet of daisies and roses.

Maid of honor was Mary Winfield of Oran and matron of honor was Mrs. Annie Avance of Sikeston, sister of the bride. Bridesmaid was Patricia Williams of St. Louis.

Best man was Willie Lee Winfield of Oran. Groomsmen were Sammy Williams of St. Louis; James Johnson, Jarry Johnson and Johnny Avance of Benton and Sammy Brown of Sikeston.

Mrs. Winfield is a 1975 graduate of Scott Central High School near Morley. Winfield is a 1974 graduate of McKinley High School near St. Louis.

The couple lives on Oran Route One.

Ann Landers

Mother advises her son to scream his head off

Annie Old Girl: You must have donated your brains to the Hadassah rummage sale. I refer to "Concerned Mom" who was afraid to let her seven-year-old boy go to the men's room by himself because "the woods are full of perverts."

Your suggestion to buttonhole a kindly gentleman on his way in and ask him to watch over the kid was idiotic. Please explain how a mother is supposed to pick out the "kindly gentleman" from the sweet old geezer who is as queer as a $3 bill?

More realistic advice would have been to tell the boy, "Go in alone and if anyone tries to molest you, scream your head off." If he doesn't know what "molest" means, she should tell him. Sex education should start early. -- Louisville Reader.

Dear Lou: You may have a point, but I doubt that any geezer, no matter how funny, would take such a chance with the kid's mother standing outside the door. Your suggestion that young boys be warned against molesters and that they yell their heads off is excellent. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am engaged to a girl who is giving me a hard time. She says I'm too possessive and overly suspicious. She doesn't act like a person who is about to be married. You be the judge.

In the last three weeks, Hilda has "disappeared" four times. When I call her apartment, her roommate says, "I don't know where she is. Maybe she's at her mothers's." I call her mother and she's not threre. When Hilda turns up after two or three days and I ask where she'w been she says, "Don't be such a male chauvinist pig."

I paid $255 for an engagement ring. We plan to be married in three months. But I worry about a girl who stays lost for two and three days and then refuses to account for herself.

Does marriage settle people down? What do you think? -- Once Burnt, Twice Shy

Dear Burnt: I think you'd better prepare for a life of grief if you marry a girl who specializes in disappearing and refuses to account for her absence. Don't expect her to settle down merely because she has a wedding ring on her finger. The engagement ring doesn't seem to mean much.

Dear Ann Landers: I always thought your columnwas to read -- not to write to. But here I am, looking for help.

I'm a boy 16, with lots of friends but no friendships.

No one ever calls me to go anyplace. I'm always the one who does the calling. Usually the guys I call have "other plans." I don't know if their excuses are legitimate or not.

My parents are always pushing me to go out, but I hate to go alone and I can't seem to get anyone to go with me. Maybe I'm a born loner. Do other people feel as I do or am I some kind of freak? Please help me. -- No Name

Dear N.N.: There are millions of people like you. In fact, popular teenagers sometimes get the idea they have no friends. It's part of growing up. You say "the guys" usually have other plans. There's another sex. Girls. Have you tried them? I'll bet at least a dozen who go to your school would be thrilled to get a phone call from you.

Give it a try, and let me know how you make out. Er . . . I mean get along.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex -- Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cent in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

"more spice than everything nice"

Rockefellers rejuvenate vice presidential home

WASHINGTON (AP) — It will take a bit of living to make the house a home, Happy Rockefeller says of the nation's first official vice presidential residence.

"I'm crazy about it. I couldn't help but like it," the wife of Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller said Sunday as she previewed the 94-year-old white frame Victorian residence on the grounds of the Naval Observatory.

"It's my baby — it takes a baby a while to grow but it's been born," she said of the home. "This is just its entrance into the world."

The Rockefellers formally opened the new residence Sunday night with the first of a series of parties at which President and Mrs. Ford and their daughter, Susan, led the guest list.

The President and his wife danced to show tunes after taking a tour ofthe home, which formerly was the residence of the chief of naval operations.

"It's very nice," Mrs. Ford said after the tour.

White, gray and beige are the predominant colors in the six-bedroom house as a setting for a wide ranging collection of artworks that includes 19th-century American seascapes, Ivory Coast wood carvings, Korean chests, and the famous $35,000 Max Ernst bed purchasedby Rockefeller.

Personal Rockefeller touches already in the house include a golden eagle over the entrance to the dining room. Mrs. Rockefeller said, "I took it off Nelson's wall in Maine."

And nearby is an old-fashioned wooden swing hanging from a huge tree ready for use by the two young Rockefeller sons.

About $311,000 has been spent to convert the house into a suitable residence for the vice president, a move prompted largely by security considerations.

These included converting one of the two wine cellers into a communications system and installing Secret Service electric eyes.

But Mrs. Rockefeller stressed the house "is supposed to be a family home. This is really, you have to understand, a private home."

Mrs. Rockefeller was questioned most frequently about what was described on a posted sign in the master bedroom as "the mysterious and poetic 'Cage+Bed.'"

Asked what the spread was made of, she explained: "dipped mink — that's not the best."

Little Miss Bernie

Monica Shay Murphy, center, 5- year- old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dale Murphy of Bernie, was named Little Miss Bernie Thursday night. Selected first runner-up was Tracy Michelle White, left, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. White, and second runner up was Cynthia Denise Riddle, right, 6- year- old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Riddle. The winners were chosen from a field of 27 contestants.

The flying wedge was outlawed in football when President Theodore Roosevelt threatened to ban the game by executive edict unless players quit being so rough.

Memphis opera opens presenting "Carmen"

MEMPHIS — One of the most famous Carmens of the opera world, international opera star Mignon Dunn, will offer her exciting portrayal of Bizet's temptress Sept. 13 in the Memphis Opera Theatre season opener. Joining Miss Dunn in the all-star cast will be bass-baritone Michael Devlin of the New York City Opera — as the toreador Escamillo — and tenor William Neill, as Don Jose.

The orchestra will be under the masterful baton of conductor Kurt Klippstatter and stage direction will be my guest director Ralph Herbert.

A special "opening of the season" offer includes a 5:30 p.m. dinner at the new, elegant Pyrenees Restaurant atop the White Station Tower and a choice seat at the opera performance, "Carmen", with bus transportation provided by Picadilly Bus Service to and from the Pyrenees parking lot. The package is good only until Sept. 8.

Following the gala season-opening production will be a delightfully new energetic production of "The Elixir of Love, "Western Style", Oct. 30 and Nov. 1. The Corbett Foundation- sponsored Donizetti production wiill be under the guest direction of Jame deBlasis and will feature soprano Linda Cook in the leading role of Adina and Metropolitan Opera basso Spiro Malas as Dulcamara. "Ariadne Auf Naxos", a Strauss masterpiece, will lead of the 1976 portion of the season Jan. 8 and 10. Staged by David Morelock, it will feature Memphian Ruth Welting, soon to make her Metropolitan Opera debut, in the challenging and difficult role of Zerbinetta. The opera, which blends the beautifll melodies of Strauss with clever and delightful comic scenes, also spotlights Metropolitan Opera soprano Carol Neblett, making the Memphis debut, in the title role.

Verdi's "Il Trovatore", the epitomy of Italian Grand Opera, closes the season Feb. 5 and 7. Leading Metropolitan Opera soprano Gilda Cruz Romo sings the role of Leonora. Louis Quilico performs the role of Count di Luna and tenor Rolf Bjorling sings the role of Manrico. David Morelock is the guest director.

The entire season is under the direction of George Osborne, general director.

Season tickets are still available at the MSU Box Office, P.O. Box 82400, Memphis, Tenn. 38152, or persons may call telephone number 454-2043 for reservations.

Controversial mail plan to be implemented soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar called on Congress today to double the postal subsidy and said a new mail-delivery system resented bitterly by the nation's letter carriers will be put into effect in one city.

Speaking to the National Postal Forum, Bailar urged Congress to double the $920 milq-lion taxpayer's subsidy to help keep postage rates "at a level that both business and the individual can afford."

Bailar also announced that the Postal Service will implement the controversial Kokomo Plan, which redraws letter carriers' routes according to computerized measurements of the number of letters delivered and miles walked, in Portland, Ore.

The plan is being implemeted only in Portland at this time, Bailar said, in order to give the letter carriers time to file a grievance and take the matter to arbitraton before the system becomes national.

The system involves restructuring of routes to equalize work and was first tested in Kokomo, Ind. Bailer said it will result in substantial cost-cutting.

He said a letter announcing the inauguration of the plan in Portland was being sent to the letter carriers Monday and he emphasized that the Postal Service will exercise its right to transfer employes if necessary.

In asking for the increased subsidy, Bailar said "it is no secret that to date the Postal Service has been unable to balance its costs and revenues despite increases in postage rates."

Referring to the next anticipated increase in first class mail, Bailar added: "A thirteen-cent stamp may enable us to catch up on our expenses but whether it will enable us to keep up in the face of continued inflation is a question yet to be answered."

He also said a public service study commission should be created to determine which services the taxpayers should be created to determine which services the taxpayers should be asked to support in the future.

Bailar said the increased subsidy would serve as "a bridge from an inflation-wracked, deficit-ridden postal service to a financially solvent institution."

The Kokomo Plan, a computerized program designed to increase the efficiency of letter carriers, "amounts to a 20 per cent speedup," Rademacher said in a interview.

Arvin executive to speak at Dexter C of C meet

DEXTER—E.W. Luzius, of Columbus, Ind., group vice president of Arvin Industries, Inc., will be the guest speaker at the quarterly meeting of the Dexter Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 tonight in the City Administration Building.

T.I. Sparks, Arvin plant manager in Dexter, asked Luzius to speak at the meeting. Luzius has been associated with Arvin approximately 30 years. Prior to his present position, he was vice president and general manager of the automotive division.

Luzius is scheduled to discuss automotive exhaust systems, including the catalytic converter. Another topic to be discussed is the engineering, manufacturing and application of various exhaust systems in automobiles produced by Chrysler, Ford, and General Motors. Luzius will use pictures and slides in his presentation.

Bill Settles is president of the Chamber of Commerce.

A question and answer period will be followed by refreshments.

Art Provice named chief of conservation area

CHARLESTON—Art Provice of Charleston, conservation agent in Mississippi County for 17 years, has been named chief of enforcement for the Missouri Conservation Department in a region of Southeast Missouri.

Provice, whose appointment was announced following a state Conservation Commission meeting last week at Jefferson City, succeeds Jess Tarter, formerly of Cape Girardeau, who retired recently after holding the position since 1959.

Provice assumed his duties last Monday. He and his wife and their two daughters and one son will move to Cape Girardeau, the regional headquarters.

A state conservation agent for nearly three decades, Provice began his career in September 1946 as agent for Madison County, based at Fredericktown. At times, he also handled duties in parts of Bollinger and St. Francois counties. He transferred to Charleston in 1958, serving as agent for Scott and Mississippi Counties until the two-county unit was split in 1961, when he was assigned to Mississippi County.

The commission also announced that James "Red" Bailey will retire Jan. 1 as the department's chief enforcement officer and that his assistant, Earl Coleman will succeed him.

Controversial mail plan to be implemented soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar called on Congress today to double the postal subsidy and said a new mail-delivery system resented bitterly by the nation's letter carriers will be put into effect in one city.

Speaking to the National Postal Forum, Bailar urged Congress to double the $920 milq-lion taxpayer's subsidy to help keep postage rates "at a level that both business and the individual can afford."

Bailar also announced that the Postal Service will implement the controversial Kokomo Plan, which redraws letter carriers' routes according to computerized measurements of the number of letters delivered and miles walked, in Portland, Ore.

The plan is being implemeted only in Portland at this time, Bailar said, in order to give the letter carriers time to file a grievance and take the matter to arbitraton before the system becomes national.

The system involves restructuring of routes to equalize work and was first tested in Kokomo, Ind. Bailer said it will result in substantial cost-cutting.

He said a letter announcing the inauguration of the plan in Portland was being sent to the letter carriers Monday and he emphasized that the Postal Service will exercise its right to transfer employes if necessary.

In asking for the increased subsidy, Bailar said "it is no secret that to date the Postal Service has been unable to balance its costs and revenues despite increases in postage rates."

Referring to the next anticipated increase in first class mail, Bailar added: "A thirteen-cent stamp may enable us to catch up on our expenses but whether it will enable us to keep up in the face of continued inflation is a question yet to be answered."

He also said a public service study commission should be created to determine which services the taxpayers should be created to determine which services the taxpayers should be asked to support in the future.

Bailar said the increased subsidy would serve as "a bridge from an inflation-wracked, deficit-ridden postal service to a financially solvent institution."

The Kokomo Plan, a computerized program designed to increase the efficiency of letter carriers, "amounts to a 20 per cent speedup," Rademacher said in a interview.

Arvin executive to speak at Dexter C of C meet

DEXTER—E.W. Luzius, of Columbus, Ind., group vice president of Arvin Industries, Inc., will be the guest speaker at the quarterly meeting of the Dexter Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 tonight in the City Administration Building.

T.I. Sparks, Arvin plant manager in Dexter, asked Luzius to speak at the meeting. Luzius has been associated with Arvin approximately 30 years. Prior to his present position, he was vice president and general manager of the automotive division.

Luzius is scheduled to discuss automotive exhaust systems, including the catalytic converter. Another topic to be discussed is the engineering, manufacturing and application of various exhaust systems in automobiles produced by Chrysler, Ford, and General Motors. Luzius will use pictures and slides in his presentation.

Bill Settles is president of the Chamber of Commerce.

A question and answer period will be followed by refreshments.

Art Provice named chief of conservation area

CHARLESTON—Art Provice of Charleston, conservation agent in Mississippi County for 17 years, has been named chief of enforcement for the Missouri Conservation Department in a region of Southeast Missouri.

Provice, whose appointment was announced following a state Conservation Commission meeting last week at Jefferson City, succeeds Jess Tarter, formerly of Cape Girardeau, who retired recently after holding the position since 1959.

Provice assumed his duties last Monday. He and his wife and their two daughters and one son will move to Cape Girardeau, the regional headquarters.

A state conservation agent for nearly three decades, Provice began his career in September 1946 as agent for Madison County, based at Fredericktown. At times, he also handled duties in parts of Bollinger and St. Francois counties. He transferred to Charleston in 1958, serving as agent for Scott and Mississippi Counties until the two-county unit was split in 1961, when he was assigned to Mississippi County.

The commission also announced that James "Red" Bailey will retire Jan. 1 as the department's chief enforcement officer and that his assistant, Earl Coleman will succeed him.

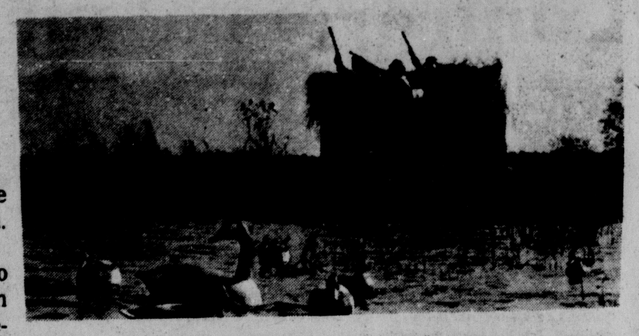
Waterfowl season set



Missouiri's waterfowl season opens Oct. 29. Duck hunters will be on a point system again. Species and sexes of ducks have varying point values and when the last duck a hunter takes puts him at or over 100 points, he is through for the day. Canada goose hunters in the Swan Lake Zone have the largest quota (25,000) since 1968. Prospects range from good to excellent for various species of waterfowl.

JEFFERSON CITY - The Missouri duck and goose seasons will open at noon on October 29. Duck hunters once again will be under a point system based on species and Canada goose hunters at Swan Lake willl have the most liberal season since 1968.

The duck point system assigns values to species. When the last duck a hunter takes bring the point total over 100, the hunter is through for that day.

Canvasback and redhead ducks, in short supply, county 100 points each; hen mallards, wood ducks, black ducks, and hooded mergansers 90; pintail, all teal, gadwall, shoveler and scaup 10 each; drake mallards and all other ducks and mergansers 35 each.

The duck season will run until December 17 with shooting hours after opening day from one-half hour before sunrise until sunset, except for the early (September 6-14) teal season when shooting will be sunrise to sunset.

Once again, the entire Mississippi River will be closed to canvasback and redhead hunting from Alton Dam upstream.

The Swan Lake goose quota will be 25,000 for the first time since 1968. Waterfowl managers have been trying to build a post-season flock of 200,000 birds since then by lowering the quotas. A spring storm on the breeding grounds was disastrous to nesting in 1969 and further delayed the flock increase.

Other Canada goose seasons are from October 29-December 12 outside the Swan Lake Zone, except that the Lower Mississippi River Zone will have a season from December 7 - January 20.

In the Swan Lake Zone, the daily limit will be one Canada goose or two white-fronted geese or one of each. Possession limit is two Canada and two white - fronted.

In the Lower Mississippi Zone, the daily limit is two Canada geese or two white-fronted geese or one of each and the possession limit is four Canada and white-fronted, including not more than two white-fronts.

In the remainder of the state, the daily bag is two Canada geese or two white-fronted or one of each, with a possession limit of two Canada and two white-fronted.

The season on blue, snow and white-fronted geese runs October 29 through January 6, with five daily and five in possesssion the limits. No more than two of the five, either daily or in possession may be white-fronted geese.

Simmons, Tyson carry big bats

NEW YORK (AP) — Lynn McGlothen of St. Louis knows about the tough times. He's going through them now—but it didn't seem to bother him too much Sunday since he came out on the winning side for a change.

Although the score won't indicate it, McGlothen worked hard to notch his 14th victory in 25 decisions this year, scattering nine New York hits in the Cardinals' 12-4 romp.

Ted Simmons had four runs batted in and Mike Tyson added three to lead the rout that kept the second-place Cards 5½ games behind Pittsburgh in the National League East.

"I struggled the whole game," McGlothen insisted. "Someone said I looked better as the ggame went on, but that's only 'cause I got some runs to coast with.

"My back hurt almost the entire game. My left knee was bothering me early on, then my back began giving me problems. It's a circulation problem in my knees. Both have been operated on. I'm having trouble with my follow-through.

"If this was early in the season, I'd probably sit myself down to tr and get myself collected. But we don't have any extra starters and John Denny's hurting—we don't know when he's coming back—so I can't afford the luxury of missing any turns."

McGlothen acknowledged that the Cards' pennant chances are fading. "We're still in the race," he said. "It's a longshot to catch the Pirates—but we can still do it. We've got six games to go against them, three at home and three in Pittsburgh on the last two weekends of the season. It's silly to bow out now, when we're this close."

Lou Brock echoed McGlothen's "longshot" view. "We can still win this thingg," he said. "We're going to have to take it one game at a time—but I'd rather be in Pittsburgh's pants."

And Manager Red Schoendienst added: "I'm not worried about Pittsburgh. I'm not worried about anybody except us. All we have to do is keep winning ourselves."

Tyson hit a three-run homer in the second inning off Jon Matlack, 16-10, but the Mets came back to tie it 3-3 with two runs in the third inning and Rusty Staub's homer in the fifth.

The Cards took the lead for good with two runs in the sixth, the tie-breaker coming when Bake McBride walked, took second on a grounder and scored on Simmons' single.

St. Louis erupted for four runs in the seventh, two on Simmons' single, then Simmons singled for another run in the Cards' three-run ninth. Del Unser's homer in the ninth wrapped up the Mets' scoring. With the loss, fourth-place New York fell 7½ games behind the Pirates.

Short selected Athlete of Yr.

SCOTT CITY--Mark Eugene Short has been selected as prep track and field athlete of the year for 1975, the editors of Coach and Athlete Magazine and Coach Robert Andrews of Illmo-Scott City High School have announced.

Nominations for track and field athlete of the year were made last spring by track and field coaches across the nation.

Criteria by which these track and field athletes were nominated include athletic ability, including statistics and overall performance, sportsmanship and personal leadership displayed during the season. To be eligible for the program the athletes must be members of their high school track and field teams.

The athlete of the year designation is an annual honor roll paying tribute to the more than 900,000 track and field athletes all across the nation. Because track and field is such an individualized sport, many fine athletes efforts are gone unnoticed by the school and the community.

The purpose of the program is to encourage these young track and field athletes by recognizing their individual performances that help contribute to team victory.

The athletic achievements of each athlete nominated will be featured in the 1975 edition of Athletes Of The Year, to be published this month. A copy of the annual will be presented to the National Track and Field Hall of Fame in Charleston, West Virginia and will be kept there on permanent display.

Waterfowl season set

Missouiri's waterfowl season opens Oct. 29. Duck hunters will be on a point system again. Species and sexes of ducks have varying point values and when the last duck a hunter takes puts him at or over 100 points, he is through for the day. Canada goose hunters in the Swan Lake Zone have the largest quota (25,000) since 1968. Prospects range from good to excellent for various species of waterfowl.

JEFFERSON CITY - The Missouri duck and goose seasons will open at noon on October 29. Duck hunters once again will be under a point system based on species and Canada goose hunters at Swan Lake willl have the most liberal season since 1968.

The duck point system assigns values to species. When the last duck a hunter takes bring the point total over 100, the hunter is through for that day.

Canvasback and redhead ducks, in short supply, county 100 points each; hen mallards, wood ducks, black ducks, and hooded mergansers 90; pintail, all teal, gadwall, shoveler and scaup 10 each; drake mallards and all other ducks and mergansers 35 each.

The duck season will run until December 17 with shooting hours after opening day from one-half hour before sunrise until sunset, except for the early (September 6-14) teal season when shooting will be sunrise to sunset.

Once again, the entire Mississippi River will be closed to canvasback and redhead hunting from Alton Dam upstream.

The Swan Lake goose quota will be 25,000 for the first time since 1968. Waterfowl managers have been trying to build a post-season flock of 200,000 birds since then by lowering the quotas. A spring storm on the breeding grounds was disastrous to nesting in 1969 and further delayed the flock increase.

Other Canada goose seasons are from October 29-December 12 outside the Swan Lake Zone, except that the Lower Mississippi River Zone will have a season from December 7 - January 20.

In the Swan Lake Zone, the daily limit will be one Canada goose or two white-fronted geese or one of each. Possession limit is two Canada and two white - fronted.

In the Lower Mississippi Zone, the daily limit is two Canada geese or two white-fronted geese or one of each and the possession limit is four Canada and white-fronted, including not more than two white-fronts.

In the remainder of the state, the daily bag is two Canada geese or two white-fronted or one of each, with a possession limit of two Canada and two white-fronted.

The season on blue, snow and white-fronted geese runs October 29 through January 6, with five daily and five in possesssion the limits. No more than two of the five, either daily or in possession may be white-fronted geese.

Simmons, Tyson carry big bats

NEW YORK (AP) — Lynn McGlothen of St. Louis knows about the tough times. He's going through them now—but it didn't seem to bother him too much Sunday since he came out on the winning side for a change.

Although the score won't indicate it, McGlothen worked hard to notch his 14th victory in 25 decisions this year, scattering nine New York hits in the Cardinals' 12-4 romp.

Ted Simmons had four runs batted in and Mike Tyson added three to lead the rout that kept the second-place Cards 5½ games behind Pittsburgh in the National League East.

"I struggled the whole game," McGlothen insisted. "Someone said I looked better as the ggame went on, but that's only 'cause I got some runs to coast with.

"My back hurt almost the entire game. My left knee was bothering me early on, then my back began giving me problems. It's a circulation problem in my knees. Both have been operated on. I'm having trouble with my follow-through.

"If this was early in the season, I'd probably sit myself down to tr and get myself collected. But we don't have any extra starters and Denny's hurting—we don't know when he's coming back—so I can't afford the luxury of missing any turns."

McGlothen acknowledged that the Cards' pennant chances are fading. "We're still in the race," he said. "It's a longshot to catch the Pirates—but we can still do it. We've got six games to go against them, three at home and three in Pittsburgh on the last two weekends of the season. It's silly to bow out now, when we're this close."

Lou Brock echoed McGlothen's "longshot" view. "We can still win this thingg," he said. "We're going to have to take it one game at a time—but I'd rather be in Pittsburgh's pants."

And Manager Red Schoendienst added: "I'm not worried about Pittsburgh. I'm not worried about anybody except us. All we have to do is keep winning ourselves."

Tyson hit a three-run homer in the second inning off Jon Matlack, 16-10, but the Mets came back to tie it 3-3 with two runs in the third inning and Rusty Staub's homer in the fifth.

The Cards took the lead for good with two runs in the sixth, the tie-breaker coming when Bake McBride walked, took second on a grounder and scored on Simmons' single.

St. Louis erupted for four runs in the seventh, two on Simmons' single, then Simmons singled for another run in the Cards' three-run ninth. Del Unser's homer in the ninth wrapped up the Mets' scoring. With the loss, fourth-place New York fell 7½ games behind the Pirates.

Short selected Athlete of Yr.

SCOTT CITY--Mark Eugene Short has been selected as prep track and field athlete of the year for 1975, the editors of Coach and Athlete Magazine and Coach Robert Andrews of Illmo-Scott City High School have announced.

Nominations for track and field athlete of the year were made last spring by track and field coaches across the nation.

Criteria by which these track and field athletes were nominated include athletic ability, including statistics and overall performance, sportsmanship and personal leadership displayed during the season. To be eligible for the program the athletes must be members of their high school track and field teams.

The athlete of the year designation is an annual honor roll paying tribute to the more than 900,000 track and field athletes all across the nation. Because track and field is such an individualized sport, many fine athletes efforts are gone unnoticed by the school and the community.

The purpose of the program is to encourage these young track and field athletes by recognizing their individual performances that help contribute to team victory.

The athletic achievements of each athlete nominated will be featured in the 1975 edition of Athletes Of The Year, to be published this month. A copy of the annual will be presented to the National Track and Field Hall of Fame in Charleston, West Virginia and will be kept there on permanent display.

Bulldog downed

Sikeston's Mike Lambert (22), holding the football in one hand and attempting to slow his fall with the other, runs into a trio of Farmington Knights during last Friday's season opening battle at public school stadium. The Dogs lost three fumbles and the game, 14-0. SHS goes to Caruthersville this Friday night to battle the Southern Division pre-season favorite.

Bulldog JV host East Prairie

It's back to the practice field for the Sikeston Bulldogs. And it could be a tough week since the Dogs lost their opener 14-0.

Caruthersville will be the next opponent for the SHS Bulldog varsity team when they travel to Tiger country Friday night.

"We expect to see about the same offense and defense as we did from Farmington," coach Terry Smith noted. "They have a lot of veterans back and will be a little more physical and a lot bigger than the Knights."

Coach Smith said he expects to make some changes in his starting lineups Friday and plans to put his defense through a tough workout this week. "Friday night our linemen were raising up," a disappointed coach Smith pointed out.

Included in Coach Smith's plans for this week's game is the playing of less people. "We'll have a few more people going both ways this week," coach Smith said.

East Prairie visits Public School stadium for a junior varsity gridiron battle tonight at 6:30 p.m. The game has been moved up 30 minutes because of the Alabama-Missouri nationally televised game.

Littell wins

Mark Littell put in one inning of work Sunday and picked up his first 1975 major league victory after being called up by the Kansas City Royals last month. He lost his opening start and had been deligated to the Bullpen. The Royals edged California 8-7 in 11 innings.

Littell fanned two in his inning and didn't allow a hit or walk.

The Gideon, Mo., native fashioned a 13-6 record at Omaha in the triple A American association and was the leagues strikeout king.

Kansas City remained five games behind the league leading Oakland A's and open a series in Oakland tonight.

The Royals used the long ball Sunday, getting five home runs. Tony Solaita hit three and John Mayberry two.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The eighth annual Capital City 500 Grand National stock car race has been rescheduled for Sunday, Oct. 12, after becoming a rain victim.

Chevrolet driver Benny Parsons of Ellerbe, N. C., had been set to start on the pole Sunday, but the race was postponed because of intermittent rain Saturday night and during the morning that continued through the afternoon.

Parsons had won the pole position Friday with a qualifying speed of 91.071 miles per hour with Darrell Waltrip of Franklin, Tenn., in second place and Lennie Pond of Petersburg, Va., third.

That means Dodge driver Richard Petty of Level Cross, N. C., who has won 13 races at the Fairgrounds Speedway and nine of the last 10, will start from the seventh position.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Funeral services are to be at 10 a.m. Tuesday for Lamar Ottsen, an internationally known speed skating figure and chairman of the U. S. Olympic Committee's speed skating committee.

Ottsen, 62, died of an apparent heart attack at O'Hare International Airport in Chicgo, where he had been to make arrangements for American skaters at the 1976 Winter Olympics in Innsbruck.

Missouri tests Bama

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri kicks the lid off the Big Eight Conference football season tonight against second-ranked Alabama at Birmingham, Ala., and is a 19-point underdog. The game will be televised nationally.

Coach Al Onofrio of Missouri regards the 1975 Crimson Tide as possibly "one of Bear Bryant's best teams."

Onofrio particularly has respect for the Tide quarterback, Richard Todd, describing him as perhaps the best quarterback Bryant has ever coached "including Joe Namath."

The rest of the Big Edight clubs launch their seasons Saturday. Five teams play at home in the afternoon. Defending national champion Oklahoma is host to Oregon, and seventh-ranked Nebraska entertains Louisiana State. Colorado faces California, Oklahoma State meets Wichita State, and Kansas collides with Washington State.

Two night games send Iowa State to 14th-ranked UCLA and Kansas State to Tulsa.

Missouri, unranked but excited over its prospects this season, doesn't plan to play dead for the Tide despite Alabama's lofty rating. The Tigers have a fine runner in Tony Galbreath and an outstanding quarterback in Steve Pisarkiewicz.

"We have a quicker defense than we've had in a number of years," says Onofrio, "and we have our biggest offensive line ever. Against Alabama, you have to be prepared to play against the wishbone and also against the broken backfield."

Bryant has said Missouri "scares me to death. Durn right, I'm worried. This is one of the toughest openers we've ever faced."

Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer says the Sooners will be a good offensive team but doesn't know whether "we're worthy of being the No. 1 team. We have to go play and see."

"I don't know about Oregon," Switzer adds.

Nebraska likely will call on Terry Luck to quarterback the Huskers against LSU. Vince Ferragamo, a junior college transfer, could inherit the signal-calling job from Dave Humm but is one of four Huskers ineligible to play in Nebraska's opening game.

Coach Bill Mallory of Colorado figures California "will be a tough opener. They throw the ball well. One of the keys to our success this season is getting the defense to improve. I want 11 guys hitting all the time."

Oklahoma State has three players competing for the quarterback post, and Coach Jim Stanley describes all of them as winners. Charlie Weatherbie, last year's quarterback, may get the nod against Wichita State but Stanley is quick to note that "whoever starts against Wichita State won't necessarily be our regular quarterback."

Kansas, likewise, has its quarterback situation up in the air. The race is between Scott McMichael, who started last season, and Nolan Cromwell, converted by new Coach Bud Moore from safety.

"I don't know who will start our first game against Washington State," Moore says. "We could have two starting quarterbacks this season."

Iowa State Coach Earle Bruce is anxious to put Luther Blue, shifted to flanker from split end, and freshman runner Dexter Green on display against UCLA. Wayne Stanley likely will be the quarterback for the Cyclones.

Ellis Rainsberger of Kansas State, the league's other new coach, thinks the crippled Wildcats "need to improve and polish a lot of things up" before they run up against the Hurricane. "The good thing is that the kids know and want to do the things we have to do to beat Tulsa."

Big Red offense shines

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) "When in Rome, do what the Romans do," could well have been the strategem worked out by St. Louis football Coach Don Coryell before the Cardinals' victory over Minnesota.

The Cardinals looked just like the methodical Vikings and even made a couple of big plays like Minnesota usually comes up with in their 13-6 nationally-televised victory Saturday night.

And, the Cardinal offense left Minnesota's defense seeing a lot of red toward the end of the game as they managed to keep possession of the football for almost 12 minutes in the final quarter.

"We wanted to shoot for this game (Minnesota) and the next one going into the season," said St. Louis cornerback Roger Wehrli. "They had beat us last year in the playoffs and we haven't forgotten."

Wehrli grabbed a fumble by the Vikings' Brent McClanahan in the third period that set up the game's only touchdown. Fullback Jim Otis banged in for the score 11 plays later on a four-yard barge through the middle and Jim Bakken, who also kicked two medium-range field goals, drilled the extra point.

"The game layed there for someone of make a play," said Minnesota Coach Bud Grant. "We had a couple of opportunities, but didn't take advantage of them."

Grant was apparently referring to dropped interceptions by safety Paul Krause and linebacker Wally Hilgenberg.

"I guess I've dropped interceptions lots of times," said Hilgenberg, who had a clear sailing to the end zone when he failed to hang onto Jim Hart's errant pass. "I'd sure like to have it again though."

Meanwhile, Wehrli and his playmates in the secondary made life miserable for Minnesota's receivers.

"We were lucky enough to keep their receivers contained," said Wehrli.

"If a couple of Tarkenton's long pases would have been complete than they'd have been the ones happy in the locker room," said Cardinal defensive coordinator Ray Willsey. "You have to play percentages against the Vikings and hope all of Tarkenton's passes aren't on target."

Hart completed 14 passes in 26 tries for 155 yards and the running backs added 158 yards with Terry Metcalf and rooki Jerry Latin each contributing 48 yards.

Tarkenton hit on 14 of 28 passes for 120 yards and fullback Ed Marinaro paced the Viking rushing game with 52 yards in 13 carries.

The Cardinals, 3-2 in the preseason, close out their exhibition season at Denver Sunday night while the Vikings, 2-3, are in San Diego Saturday night.

BRAINERD, Minn. (AP) — Jerry Hansen 0of Wayzata, Minn., captured the 33-lap Trans-Am feature Sunday at the Land-O-Lakes Region Sports Club of America races at Brainerd International Speedway.

Vince Muzzin of Northville, Mich., collected the $4,100 first place check in the 15-lap Formula Ford race while Bill Brack of Toronto zipped to the 30-lap victory in Formula Atlantic Formula B competition.

Hansen drove his Corvette an average 99.143 miles per hour. He battled with Bob Tullius of Herndon, Va., until Tullis went out with a broken axle on the 12th lap.

Muzzin drove his Lola T-340 an average 99.65 m.p.h. on the three mile track.

Bulldog downed

Sikeston's Mike Lambert (22), holding the football in one hand and attempting to slow his fall with the other, runs into a trio of Farmington Knights during last Friday's season opening battle at public school stadium. The Dogs lost three fumbles and the game, 14-0. SHS goes to Caruthersville this Friday night to battle the Southern Division pre-season favorite.

Bulldog JV host East Prairie

It's back to the practice field for the Sikeston Bulldogs. And it could be a tough week since the Dogs lost their opener 14-0.

Caruthersville will be the next opponent for the SHS Bulldog varsity team when they travel to Tiger country Friday night.

"We expect to see about the same offense and defense as we did from Farmington," coach Terry Smith noted. "They have a lot of veterans back and will be a little more physical and a lot bigger than the Knights."

Coach Smith said he expects to make some changes in his starting lineups Friday and plans to put his defense through a tough workout this week. "Friday night our linemen were raising up," a disappointed coach Smith pointed out.

Included in Coach Smith's plans for this week's game is the playing of less people. "We'll have a few more people going both ways this week," coach Smith said.

East Prairie visits Public School stadium for a junior varsity gridiron battle tonight at 6:30 p.m. The game has been moved up 30 minutes because of the Alabama-Missouri nationally televised game.

Littell wins

Mark Littell put in one inning of work Sunday and picked up his first 1975 major league victory after being called up by the Kansas City Royals last month. He lost his opening start and had been deligated to the Bullpen. The Royals edged California 8-7 in 11 innings.

Littell fanned two in his inning and didn't allow a hit or walk.

The Gideon, Mo., native fashioned a 13-6 record at Omaha in the triple A American association and was the leagues strikeout king.

Kansas City remained five games behind the league leading Oakland A's and open a series in Oakland tonight.

The Royals used the long ball Sunday, getting five home runs. Tony Solaita hit three and John Mayberry two.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The eighth annual Capital City 500 Grand National stock car race has been rescheduled for Sunday, Oct. 12, after becoming a rain victim.

Chevrolet driver Benny Parsons of Ellerbe, N. C., had been set to start on the pole Sunday, but the race was postponed because of intermittent rain Saturday night and during the morning that continued through the afternoon.

Parsons had won the pole position Friday with a qualifying speed of 91.071 miles per hour with Darrell Waltrip of Franklin, Tenn., in second place and Lennie Pond of Petersburg, Va., third.

That means Dodge driver Richard Petty of Level Cross, N. C., who has won 13 races at the Fairgrounds Speedway and nine of the last 10, will start from the seventh position.

Missouri tests Bama

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri kicks the lid off the Big Eight Conference football season tonight against second-ranked Alabama at Birmingham, Ala., and is a 19-point underdog. The game will be televised nationally.

Coach Al Onofrio of Missouri regards the 1975 Crimson Tide as possibly "one of Bear Bryant's best teams."

Onofrio particularly has respect for the Tide quarterback, Richard Todd, describing him as perhaps the best quarterback Bryant has ever coached "including Joe Namath."

The rest of the Big Edight clubs launch their seasons Saturday. Five teams play at home in the afternoon. Defending national champion Oklahoma is host to Oregon, and seventh-ranked Nebraska entertains Louisiana State. Colorado faces California, Oklahoma State meets Wichita State, and Kansas collides with Washington State.

Two night games send Iowa State to 14th-ranked UCLA and Kansas State to Tulsa.

Missouri, unranked but excited over its prospects this season, doesn't plan to play dead for the Tide despite Alabama's lofty rating. The Tigers have a fine runner in Tony Galbreath and an outstanding quarterback in Steve Pisarkiewicz.

"We have a quicker defense than we've had in a number of years," says Onofrio, "and we have our biggest offensive line ever. Against Alabama, you have to be prepared to play against the wishbone and also against the broken backfield."

Bryant has said Missouri "scares me to death. Durn right, I'm worried. This is one of the toughest openers we've ever faced."

Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer says the Sooners will be a good offensive team but doesn't know whether "we're worthy of being the No. 1 team. We have to go play and see."

"I don't know about Oregon," Switzer adds.

Nebraska likely will call on Terry Luck to quarterback the Huskers against LSU. Vince Ferragamo, a junior college transfer, could inherit the signal-calling job from Dave Humm but is one of four Huskers ineligible to play in Nebraska's opening game.

Coach Bill Mallory of Colorado figures California "will be a tough opener. They throw the ball well. One of the keys to our success this season is getting the defense to improve. I want 11 guys hitting all the time."

Oklahoma State has three players competing for the quarterback post, and Coach Jim Stanley describes all of them as winners. Charlie Weatherbie, last year's quarterback, may get the nod against Wichita State but Stanley is quick to note that "whoever starts against Wichita State won't necessarily be our regular quarterback."

Iowa State Coach Earle Bruce is anxious to put Luther Blue, shifted to flanker from split end, and freshman runner Dexter Green on display against UCLA. Wayne Stanley likely will be the quarterback for the Cyclones.

Ellis Rainsberger of Kansas State, the league's other new coach, thinks the crippled Wildcats "need to improve and polish a lot of things up" before they run up against the Hurricane. "The good thing is that the kids know and want to do the things we have to do to beat Tulsa."

Dr. Lamb

Tick fever easier to treat

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMP — I would like to inquire about the vaccination for Rocky Mountain Spotted (Tick) Fever. Some doctors do not keep the serum and explain that it is too expensive to keep on hand and that the shot may have serious side effects. Other doctors give the shots and recommend them. Do you think these shots are worthwhile? Ticks are very bad in this part of the country, especially in the grass and woods.

Also tell me a little about the fever and some early signs to look for if my children get sick. What can be done if a child gets this fever?

DEAR READER — You are almost out of the woods this year. The disease usually strikes between the first of May and the last of September.

The reason the vaccine is not used so much any more is that it is now much easier to treat Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever than it used to be. The important thing is to suspect the disease early and start treatment early. Several antibiotics (tetracyclines and chloramphenicol) are very effective in treating the disease.

The name of the disease is a misnomer. It was first found in the United States in Montana, and for years people thought it was indigenous to the Rocky Mountain area, which proved to be false. It is found quite frequently along the Atlantic Seaboard. It affects about 300 people a year.

The disease itself starts two days to two weeks after being bitten by a tick. The illness may begin like measles. However, measles are less common in the months when Rocky Mountain Fever is most likely to occur. There may be associated pain in the bones, joints, and muscles, but that won't help make a diagnosis. By the second day the fever is commonly 40 to 40.5 degrees C (104 to 105 degrees F.).

In two to six days a rash develops and may progress to involve large areas of the skin. The brain may be involved with delirium and even coma. The real death-dealing complications, though, are involvement of the lungs and heart.

The fever is usually over in about two weeks, but it may take a month or two for the patient to fully recover.

The ticks transmit an organism half way between bacteria and viruses, called rickettsia. An infected tick will transmit the disease to its own offsprings. The rickettsial illness affects small mammals, including dogs.

When the tick gets on man it will innoculate him with the rickettsia. The tick cannot transmit the infection without being attached for several hours. So, if you inspect your person twice a day for ticks and remove them, you will go a long way toward protecting yourself.

New books acquired by library

"Seven Men Of Gascony", by R. F. Delderfield, is a new addition to the book collection at Sikeston Public Library.

This magnificent saga, which spans the heroic triumphs and defeats of Napoleon Bonaparte, follows the fortunes of seven soldiers in the Emperor's army, from Austria through imprisonment in England, escape to France, the retreat from Moscow and the ultimate defeat of Waterloo.

Written in an epic vein with a wealth of fascinating detail about the Napoleonic era, the focus of the novel remains its central characters, depicted in a compelling narrative and with the strong characterization for which Delderfield is so admired.

Full of romance, warmth and passion, this is one of his finest novels.

Other new library additions include:

Fiction: "Gone Away", by David H. Brooks; "Kilgaren", by Isabelle Holland; "Ragtime", by E. L. Doctorow; "The Mixed Blessing", by Helen Van Slyke; and "Mr. Big", by Daniel Forbes.

Non-Fiction: "Weathering the Storm", by Elizabeth Evans; "Keeping Food Safe", by Hassell Bradley; "The Retirement Book", by Joan Adler; "Breach Of Faith", by Theodore H. White; "Among the Elephants", by Iain Douglas-Hamilton; and "A False Spring", by Pat Jordan.

Missouri begins preparing for bicentennial activities

WASHINGTON, D.C. — As we are now officially into the Bicentennial year, activities in Missouri to commemorate the birthdate of our nation are well under way.

Across the state, Missourians have responded to the celebration of the Bicentennial anniversary with characteristic energy and imagination. Missouri, by virtue of its 247 "Bicentennial communities", is among the 10 states most heavily involved in the activities surrounding our 200th birtheay.

The designation of Bicentennial community is awarded by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administation (ARBA) in Washington, D.C., to communities whose Bicentennial plans incorporate all segments of its populatrion and encompass the major themes of the Bicentennial. A community so designated is entitled to use the official flag and logo of the Bicentennial.

Under guidelines established by Congress, the ARBA channels funds for activities in the states through the State Bicentennial Commissions and grants the state commissions authority to evaluate the many requests and recommend funding levels.

Although very limited, funds are available on a competitive basis to communities through the Missouri Bicentennial Commission. However, many Missouri communities are proving that a great deal can be accomplished without the benefit of federal funds.

As but one example, Sumner, Mo., with a population of less than 200, has raised more than $11,000 through various community activities. The money has been used to construct a monument to the migratory flight of the thousands of Canadian geese which stop at the nearby Swan Lake Wildlife Refuge each year.

Already, Sumner's project has received the attention of the national media; attention which will undoubtedly increase tourist interst in the scenic areas surrounding the town.

If you, your organization or community are not yet involved in the Bicentennial celebration, it is not too late to do so. The possibilities for projects are unlimited and can range from those which concentate on aspects of our heritage to those which will beneift future generations.

The Missouri Bicentennial Commission in Jefferson City is ready to help with information about federal grants and ideas for possible projects. Of course, my office is always at your service.

As we approach our 200th birthday, the cooperation and community spirit which has been exhibited by Missourians as they plan for the Bicentennial celebration bodes well for the future realization of the ideals upon which this nation was founded.

What's the law?

The case of the bemopped employe

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

While Phil didn't have as good a figure as some of his female coworkers, he did have hair that was as long as many of them. And that's what got Phil in trouble with his employer, a manufacturer of food products, who insisted that men wear hats on the job and women hairnets.

As it developed, however, bemopped Phil had so much hair that it wouldn't all fit under a hat. What's more, his employer wouldn't let him wear a hairnet like his female counter-parts on the job. Thj the situation boiled down to either Phil's hair went or Phil did. And, refusing to part with a single strand, Phil was fired. Immediately, he started an action under the Civil Righs Act to get his job back.

"We manufacture food," argued Phil's employer in court. "For reasons of sanitation, it's absolutely necessary that men wear hats. Otherwise, it would be hair today and contamination tomorrow."

"Nonsense," was Phil's answer. "He just doesn't like men with long hair and wants to get rid of them. Obviously, if it was just a question of sanitation, hairnets for men would be just as effective as hairnets for women."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give hairy Phil back his job?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The Judge held that contamination could occur just as easily from a woman's hair being contained in a hairnet as a man's being so contained. Consequently, concluded the judge, it seemed obvious that Phil was fired for reasons other than sanitation reasons. If females were permitted to wear hairnets, not to allow men to do likewise was discrimination contrary to the Civil Rights Act.

Tick fever easier to treat

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMP — I would like to inquire about the vaccination for Rocky Mountain Spotted (Tick) Fever. Some doctors do not keep the serum and explain that it is too expensive to keep on hand and that the shot may have serious side effects. Other doctors give the shots and recommend them. Do you think these shots are worthwhile? Ticks are very bad in this part of the country, especially in the grass and woods.

Also tell me a little about the fever and some early signs to look for if my children get sick. What can be done if a child gets this fever?

DEAR READER — You are almost out of the woods this year. The disease usually strikes between the first of May and the last of September.

The reason the vaccine is not used so much any more is that it is now much easier to treat Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever than it used to be. The important thing is to suspect the disease early and start treatment early. Several antibiotics (tetracyclines and chloramphenicol) are very effective in treating the disease.

The name of the disease is a misnomer. It was first found in the United States in Montana, and for years people thought it was indigenous to the Rocky Mountain area, which proved to be false. It is found quite frequently along the Atlantic Seaboard. It affects about 300 people a year.

By the second day the fever is commonly 40 to 40.5 degrees C (104 to 105 degrees F.).

In two to six days a rash develops and may progress to involve large areas of the skin. The brain may be involved with delirium and even coma. The real death-dealing complications, though, are involvement of the lungs and heart.

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Sept. 8, the 251st day of 1975. There are 114 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1565, a Spanish expedition landed at what is now St. Augustine, Fla., and founded the first permanent European settlement in North America.

On this date:

In 1664, Peter Stuyvesant surrendered New Amsterdam to the British.

In 1760, Wisconsin came under British control after being French territory.

In 1855, the Crimean War ended.

Handicapped vacationers gain travel ease

JEFFERSON CITY—Handicapped vacationers this season gained assurance that their travel across Missouri's Interstate highways will now be a bit easier, thanks to the completion of modifications to sidewalks, restrooms and water fountains at all of Missouri's rest areas, says Robert N. Hunter, chief engineer of the Missouri State Highway Department.

"Modifications were started last fall, with completion of all the work during the spring. These same modifications are being incorporated into future rest areas and those currently under construction as well," Hunter added.

A recent letter of thanks to the highway department from a handicapped traveler pointed out the greater convenience of lowered drinking fountains, restroom stalls wide enough to accommodate a wheelchair, handrails and ramps from the parking areas to sidewalks—where curbs had formerly been. Also, reserved parking spaces are provided adjacent to the wheelchair ramp.

A special sign showing a white stylized symbol of a person seated in a wheelchair (the international symbol of access for the handicapped) and a white border on a blue background marks the handicap areas.

When the modifications and signing were completed this year, Missouri became one of the leading states to have totally adapted their rest areas to accomodate the handicapped, using the blue on white international symbol.

New Madrid DAEOC plans general education classes beginning Sept. 15

NEW MADRID--The DAEOC Center in New Madrid is recruiting and enrolling students for general education development classes sponsored by Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation.

The adult education program enables persons who dropped out of school to finish high school.

Upon completion of the six-month course, which will be conducted in three-hour sessions two nights per week, the students will be given a test by the State Department of Education.

Students who pass the test will receive a certificate equivalent to a high school diploma.

The course is open to applicants who must be at least 18 years old and out of school at least six months following the end of the last school year they attended. There is no maximum age limit.

Persons interested in taking the course should visit the DAEOC Center in the basement of the courthouse in New Madrid, from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, or call telephone number 748-5506. After 5 p.m., Bea Smith may be reached by phone at 643-2419 for further information.

Enrollment will be taken from 7 to 9 p.m. Sept. 11 at the DAEOC Center. If sufficient enrollment is obtained, classes will start at 7 p.m. Sept. 15 at New Madrid High School.
